Tobruk Again Surrounded By Enemy Forces

Axis Forces Cut Road Along North Libyan Coast East Of Tobruk

BRITISH HOLDING HALFAYA PASS

British Forces Take Up Positions To Guard Egypt And Suez Canal

By GEORGE LAIT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

CAIRO, June 19.—Axis forces have cut the north Libyan coastal road east of Tobruk, seized Gambut, only 40 miles from the Egyptian frontier, and British forces now are back at famed Halfaya pass below Sollum, it was admitted officially today.

Tobruk now is completely surrounded, just as it was when a courageous garrison under General Sir Thomas Blamey, now second in command to General Douglas MacArthur in Australia, held out for more than seven months under siege.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: General Blamey told International News Service in an exclusive interview at Melbourne today that Tobruk could be held again unless strategy demands its voluntary surrender.)

When Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel shot his mechanized forces to the north, wrested Gambut from British hands and severed the last communication line connecting Tobruk with Egypt, he bottled up a

British General Says Tobruk Importance Is Being Over-Emphasized

By LEE VAN ATTA
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MELBOURNE, June 19.—General Sir Thomas Blamey, chief of United Nations land forces in the southwest Pacific who last year commanded Australian forces defending the Libyan fortress of Tobruk during a seven-month Axis siege, declared today that United Nations forces definitely can —and most probably will— hold both Libya and Egypt against the present Axis onslaught.

Tobruk, he said, will not fall unless British Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's strategy demands that this bastion on the Mediterranean coast be surrendered voluntarily.

Gen. Blamey, former deputy commander in the middle east, expressed this opinion on the current critical situation in Libya in an exclusive interview with International News Service.

The general, now second only to American Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the southwest Pacific command.

Sergt. Nicholson 'Killed In Action'

Later Report From War Department Changes First Message On Death

SERGT. R. L. NICHOLSON

First word received by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Nicholson, Sr., of 928 Temple avenue from the war department a few days ago, was that their son, Sergt. Raymond J. Nicholson, Jr., serving with the American forces in the western Pacific area, had died as a result of injuries sustained in an auto accident.

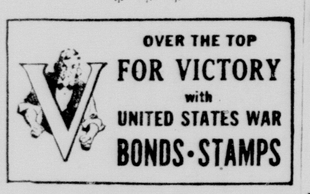

A later message from the war department is that Sergt. Nicholson was "killed in action", Mr. Nicholson reports today.

Sergt. Nicholson was serving his second enlistment in the United States army at the time he gave his life for his country.

Tobruk May Be Abandoned

Hint Of Possible Action Seen In Statement From London

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

LONDON, June 19.—A hint that the Libyan fortress of Tobruk might be abandoned was seen today in a statement by an authoritative British spokesman who said that Tobruk is not essential to the successful defense of the Egyptian frontier.

The spokesman declined to be drawn out on the question of whether the Mediterranean coast fortress will not be defended to the last.

(Editor's note: Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, who commanded Australian troops last year during the seven-month siege of Tobruk, told International News Service today in an exclusive interview at Melbourne that the abandonment of Tobruk would not menace the United Nations position in the vital Egyptian and Suez Canal area. General Blamey, presently second in command to Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the southwest Pacific, said it may be quite possible that the British Middle East commander may choose to give up Tobruk as not worth the price of defense but he declared that the fortress definitely could be held against the Axis forces if the Middle East command decided to do so.)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, in Australia, June 19.—The Japanese have thrown two new planes into the southwest Pacific air battle. An improved Zero fighter, armed with two cannon and four machine guns, is "as good as the Hurricane," U. S. Airforce men declared today. But at medium altitudes the American Bell Aircobra and the Curtiss P-40 can still outrun and outfight the Zero, new or old.

The Zero has greater maneuverability at high altitudes simply because it has sacrificed armor and protection for the pilot.

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

MOSCOW, June 19.—Overcome by Soviet artillery fire, German tank detachments attacking Sevastopol turned and fled, abandoning infantry regiments to their fate, the Moscow radio announced today.

Waves of German infantry troops which had been supported by tanks and Nazi artillery were moved down when the battered mechanized units turned tail, the announcement said. Hundreds of Germans were killed.

Seek Changes In Key Jobs Of WPB

WASHINGTON, June 19—Senate defense committee members today called for changes in some of the key jobs in the war production board as reports circulated in congressional circles that Chairman Donald M. Nelson already has decided on a shake-up.

Sen. Harry S. Truman (D) Mo., chairman of the defense committee, declared that while amazing strides have been made in production, some officials of the WPB are obstacles to an all-out war effort.

"We have converted the machines to all-out war, and now we have got to convert a few minds in the WPB to all-out war," he said.

A majority of the committee joined in a report criticizing the WPB for delaying industrial conversion and placed the blame largely on dollar-a-year men, although Sen. Connally (D) Texas, a member, asserted that the report will hamper the work of Nelson.

Churchhill's Visit To U. S. Brings Activity Along Coast By Nazis

By LEO V. DOLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 19—Coincident with announcement of the arrival in the United States of Prime Minister Winston Churchill and British military leaders to discuss the opening of a second front in Europe reports reached London today that the Germans were taking new precautions against invasion along the French and Belgian coasts.

Dispatches from the French frontier reported that Nazi authorities had ordered the evacuation of the entire civil population from Dieppe to Boulogne on the French coast. The move ostensibly was made to prevent Frenchmen from aiding British commando forces as they did in the recent forceful incursion at St. Nazaire.

Moscow meanwhile quoted a Stockholm dispatch reporting that the civil population had been evacuated from several coastal districts in Belgium.

Military Discussions

Authoritative British sources said following disclosure of Churchill's second visit to America that the absence of diplomatic officials in the party makes it clear that the prime minister's talks with President Roosevelt will deal mainly with military projects.

This assumption was bolstered by the fact that with Churchill were

Life Term Given Madeline Webb

Companions In New York Murder Sentenced To Die In Chair

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 19.—Madeline Webb, 28-year-old Oklahoma A. & M. honor graduate, today was sentenced to serve life in prison for the robbery-murder of Mrs. Susan Flora Reich in a New York hotel last March.

Immediately after Madeline heard the sentence in silence, her married lover, Eli Shonbrun, and John Cullen were doomed to die in the electric chair during the week of July 27.

Before Shonbrun and Cullen were sentenced the dark-haired former model and showgirl was taken from the courtroom so she did not hear her partners in crime doomed to death.

As Shonbrun passed Prosecutor Jacob Grumet after sentence was imposed, he snarled:

"Well, goodbye Mr. Grumet."

Madeline's life was spared by the jury which recommended mercy. There was no such recommendation for either Shonbrun, who admitted the crime, nor Cullen who said nothing in his defense during the trial.

But today he plays like a thrifty Scot, he watches his balls like a hawk, and if perchance one goes into the rough you hear a loud anguished squawk, and he hunts and hunts till the daylight dies, for lost balls are not so much fun, when you cant buy new ones the way you could, the weather is ninety one.*

U. S. Attack Strategy To Be In Air

Offensive Plan Being Changed

Believe That Attacks Will Be Launched First By Air, Second Sea; Third Land

U. S. AIRMEN IN ALL BATTLE AREAS

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 19 — America's developing offensive against the Axis powers today is undergoing sweeping changes and indications are that this nation's all-out counter-attack strategy probably will be first by air, second by sea and third by land.

This is the firm belief of military and naval experts based on developments since the Japanese attack upon Pearl Harbor, especially the smashing defeats handed the Nipponese navy in the Coral Sea and at Midway.

Possibly foreshadowing a general American aerial offensive in Europe, the War department in its latest communique confirmed previous reports that U. S. Army airmen in cooperation with the Royal Air force scored "a considerable number" of hits on two Italian battleships in the Mediterranean.

Important Theatre

The fact that the War Department issued the communique so long after reports of the engagement came from Cairo and London indicated that army officials considered the Mediterranean war theater an important one and that further developments may be expected.

While American Army and Navy airmen have been striking increasingly heavy blows against the Axis, especially Japan, these have been considered more in the nature of harassing attacks pending formulation of a "grand plan" to win the war.

Now, however, there are increasing indications that the aerial blows against the enemies throughout the world probably will be stepped up in tempo and scope into a series of mighty spearheads designed to "soften up" the Axis forces in preparation for further assaults by sea and land.

Until the attack on Pearl Harbor and the subsequent lightning-like events, the belief prevailed that an American-Japanese war would resolve itself into a U. S. blockade of Nippon and possibly a series of naval battles between warships for domination of the sealanes.

The tide of official and public opinion began to turn definitely in favor of greater and greater aerial blows following American long-range bombing attacks against Nipponese bases in the Philippines early in April and the army raid on Tokyo April 18.

PRESIDENT AND CHURCHILL HAVE WAR CONFERENCE

British military leaders, including those in charge of war plans and operations. He is believed to have been greeted by President Roosevelt, but the location of his arrival and the whereabouts of the two leaders is a military secret.

The White House announced Churchill's arrival and confirmed that the purposes of his visit is to discuss war plans. In response to questions, Presidential Secretary Stephen T. Early told reporters they would be justified in assuming that the question of a second front would figure prominently in the discussion.

Early said that the subject of the conferences "will be very naturally the war, the conduct of the war and the winning of the war."

Accompanying the Prime Minister are Gen. Sir Alan Brooke, Maj. Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay, Brig. G. M. Stewart, Sir Charles Wilsin, John Martin, Churchill's secretary and Comdr. C. V. R. Thompson, another secretary and aide.

Sudden Journey

Churchill's sudden journey to this country to confer with the President follows swiftly in the wake of the recent visit to London and Washington of Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov. Molotov's visit resulted in the conclusion of historic agreements between the United States, Great Britain and Soviet Russia, including an understanding regarding the "urgent tasks" of creating a second front in Europe.

It also coincides with the intensified demand from the Soviet, voiced in the Russian press and by Soviet Ambassador Ivan Maisky in London, for the opening of another front by British and American armies in Europe, without further delay.

Two Main Questions

It is believed that the two main questions under discussion by Churchill and the President are:

1. Ways and means of making available as soon as possible sufficient shipping to transport and supply an Anglo-American expeditionary force;

2. The location in Europe where the oifensive should be launched.

The belief has prevailed in diplomatic quarters in Washington for some time that when the United States and Great Britain decided to open a second front, the attempt may be made in Holland, Norway or the Mediterranean area rather than in Western France.

Lack of sufficient shipping has been considered the main obstacle to the launching of a major land offensive by an Anglo - American expeditionary force in the immediate future.

Sub Campaign Effect

Responsible sources have said that the men and materials were ready, but the shipping was not available and probably would not be so until the American navy succeeds in smashing the Axis submarine campaign on this side of the Atlantic.

Diplomatic quarters remain somewhat doubtful that Churchill's visit would lead to the immediate opening of a second front in Europe. The diplomats were more inclined to believe that the British Prime Minister and the President are discussing plans for the launching of a major land offensive later in the summer.

On the other hand, it was considered conceivable in some quarters that the United States and Britain might decide to risk a land move against Hitler somewhat earlier than originally contemplated in view of the increased Soviet pressure, and especially since the Russians appear to be holding the Nazis on the Southern front.

CHURCHILL'S VISIT BRINGS ACTIVITY ALONG COAST

General Sir Alan Brooke, chief of the British Imperial general staff, and Major General Sir Hastings Ismay, secretary of the Imperial defense council.

While the entire war situation will be survived, it was said, informed sources believed the major topic of discussion would be centered around the opening of a second front in Europe. The visit offers the prime minister and President Roosevelt the first opportunity to undertake further planning since the recent visit of Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov to London and Washington. The Soviet leader won from both Democratic leaders a consideration to open a second front against the Axis in 1942.

In some quarters the belief arose that because of the critical situation in Libya Churchill and the president may be compelled to conclude that a second front is impossible this year despite assurances made to Russia.

See Quick Decisions

It was not known in London how long a time the prime minister expected to devote to the discussions but it was indicated that the new surprise visit would result in lightning decisions on urgent war issues.

There is considerable ground to be covered because of the greatly changed picture since Churchill was in Washington at Christmas time. While the war in the Pacific has taken a favorable turn with successful United Nations campaigns against Japan in the Coral Sea and at Midway, the situation in North Africa has grown increasingly dangerous.

The departure of the prime minister and his party was kept a close secret in London and many members of parliament were completely in the dark. Only yesterday a request was made in the house of commons that Churchill make a war statement to that body immediately. The members were totally unaware that Churchill at that moment was nearer to the United States than to Westminster.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Lord Privy Seal, blandly replied to the request by stating that he would pass the word along.

MOSCOW SAYS WAVES OF NAZI INFANTRY KILLED

the Nazi armies to bridge the river, believed to be in the Donetz, cost Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock 3,000 casualties. In the first thrust he was said to have lost 1,500 dead. The second attempt cost another 1,500 in dead and wounded.

Several anti-tank guns and pieces of artillery were reported captured along with other material when the Germans were forced to retire.

Heavy Losses

In numerous other attacks and counter-attacks along the Kharkov front the Germans were said to have lost more than 1,000 in separate clashes as well as much material.

The Nazi armies of Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock lost 1,500 men in the first futile attempt to bridge the river on the Kharkov front, believed to be the Donetz. No figures were mentioned in accounts of the second repulse meted out by Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's forces but the casualties and losses in material were said to be heavy.

In its midnight communique the Soviet high command said that fierce German attacks on Sevastopol had been repelled with heavy losses but said there were no material changes in other sectors.

(A Nazi claim to have captured the strong Maxim Gorki fortress at Sevastopol was not substantiated by the Russians.)

A supplement to the communique stated that in four days of fighting on one sector of the Kharkov front 4,000 Germans were killed, and many were taken prisoner. Some 70 Nazi tanks and 140 motor vehicles were said to have been destroyed.

An accusation was made that the Germans had been testing poison gas on prisoners in a concentration camp at Lens, Austria. It was said that more than 100 persons were poisoned during May.

BRITISH GENERAL SAYS TOBRUK BEING OVER-EMPHASIZED

looked with scorn upon German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's present Libyan advances. He said they were completely indecisive and prophesied that they would bring no victory for the Axis because Rommel does not have reserves either of mechanized power or man-power to press any temporary gains to a permanent or even momentary defeat of the British and Australian forces.

Axis Forces Small

"It is a grave mistake," Gen. Blamey declared, "to believe the Axis has sufficient forces to bring about decisive results in north Africa.

"Unlike the far eastern or European picture, huge armies cannot be developed in Libya or Egypt—geographical conditions and problems of supplies and water make this impossible.

"Neither the German nor the allied forces have sufficient strength to gain any lasting victory there."

Gen. Blamey forcefully scotched reports that the possible fall of Tobruk would menace the United Nations position. He asserted that the outpost which was the focus of a gallant stand by Australian forces last year has assumed minute proportions in the whole middle east picture under the present strategy.

"We stayed in Tobruk last year because we had no other place to go due to lack of supplies—and with a very small garrison we held off Axis offensives for nine months," he said.

(Editor's Note: The main Axis siege of Tobruk took place between April and November 27 of last year, a period of seven months, but Gen. Blamey undoubtedly was referring to the total period during which Tobruk was subjected to attack.)

May Not Stand Siege

"Today," the general continued, "Tobruk is a powerful and well stocked fortress and it needs only to be surrendered if General Auchinleck feels it not worthwhile submitting to another siege.

"I have every confidence we would hold Tobruk as we held it last year if Auchinleck desires to do so. He may believe to withdraw from Tobruk will free both men and machines to fight in the region around the Egyptian-Libyan border—the same place where we threw Rommel back before."

Gen. Blamey stated that the position of Tobruk is "completely different" today from what it was a year ago since he maintains that the entire middle east situation is infinitely brighter and more reassuring that it was a year ago.

"When we were in Tobruk we had only partially equipped forces. Conditions forced us to hold it. Today we are facing the enemy with well equipped and strong mobile forces and thousands of troops and combat units which we have not yet even entered into battle.

No Significance

"I am confident Tobruk has no significance to the future of Egypt and I am most certainly not discouraged by the news from the middle east today. I think too much is being made out of it."

Gen. Blamey freely admitted that German equipment—tanks, anti-tank guns, etc.—were superior to those being used in Libya by British mechanized forces but said there presently is a steady improvement in this vital phase of the middle east battle.

The British, he said, have been able to balance the German superiority in that respect partly by their more favorable position in getting supplies.

Gen. Blamey maintained that as far as he knows Rommel definitely does not have sufficient forces—nor are there sufficient reinforcements on the way to him—to continue a strong offensive in Libya.

The general's staff officers—middle east veterans all—describe Rommel as bold and energetic but say he is a thoroughly vain officer who possesses unquestioned ability as a great general but who has made the mistake of satisfying his personal vanity too often.

places located in the Manoning, Lincoln and Garfield and Thaddeus Stevens schools, in addition to the offices of the board in the Greer building, North Mercer street.

The group which will conduct the registration in the Mahoning school has already been lined up, but volunteers are needed for the Lincoln and Garfield and the Thaddeus Stevens schools. The hours of registration will be the same as for the previous registrations, 7 a. m. to 9 p. m.

TOBRUK AGAIN SURROUNDED BY ENEMY FORCES

first-class British army of between 30,000 and 35,000 men in the Mediterranean stronghold.

Last reports from the battlefront said that Rommel was not exerting any great pressure against Tobruk at the moment, preferring to continue a steady advance eastward from El Adem.

British troops now "hold" Halfaya pass, the official announcement said.

The eighth army under Lieut. Gen. Sir Neil Methuen Ritchie took up positions behind strong fortifications on the Egyptian frontier to ward off any attempt by Axis forces to smash into Egypt against the Suez Canal.

Some units of the British army retired to the defenses of Tobruk where sweating troops girded themselves behind barbed wire fences and mine fields to combat a furious onslaught by Axis forces which was expected momentarily.

(In London the Daily Sketch reported that Tobruk already was under fire with German shells thudding against its defenses.)

British mobile forces, the middle east high command said, were confining activity of advance Axis columns to the coastal belt along the shores of the Mediterranean.

The eighth army is now holding a strong fortified position on the Libyan frontier and holding Tobruk," it was announced in a communique.

"Our mobile forces operating from the south," the communique continued, "are confining the enemy columns to the coastal belt."

Axis armored units under command of German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel maneuvered to close a ring of steel around the vital port of Tobruk to begin a new siege of the British citadel in Libya which last year stood up under seven months of enemy battering.

The defenders included part of the British forces which withdrew from El Adem, to the south, and Sidi Rezegh, to the southeast of the Mediterranean port, after strong panzer units smashed Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie's shortened defense line running in an arc from Acroma in the west, through El Adem and to Sidi Rezegh. Part of the British troops were withdrawing still further eastward toward the Egyptian frontier.

(A Berlin report received in Stockholm estimated that the British forces at Tobruk total between 30,000 and 35,000.)

Military circles conceded that the United Nations cause in Libya was faced with a grave situation through the swift advance of Marshal Rommel after collapse of the central desert defense line based on El Gazala in the north and Bir Hacheim in the south. The 60-mile line of fortified outposts was quickly rolled asunder after capitulation of Bir Acheim and its Free French defenders.

No announcement was made concerning the fate of British forces at Acroma in the communique disclosing the fall of El Adem and Sidi Rezegh and the retreat to the confines of the bastion of Tobruk. All that was divulged here was that the British still clung to Acroma Wednesday night despite fierce Axis attacks. El Adem and Sidi Rezegh were given up sometime Wednesday.

SCRAP RUBBER IS BEING COLLECTED

Navy Relief and the USO. The boxes were contributed by the Lingerlight Dairy and are being distributed to stations by the William Milsom company.

"Treasure Hunt"

Today the Petroleum Industry War council announced plans for a week-end "treasure hunt." The idea is to have you go through your attic, cellar and garage Saturday afternoon and dig out what rubber articles you missed. Then drop them off at the service station on your way to church Sunday morning, or if you miss church Sunday, drop them off on your way to work Monday.

This rubber collection campaign is a serious effort to avert national gas rationing. Rubber must be conserved and Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director, urges everyone to use their cars sparingly and to forego long vacations by automobile.

In the meantime, here in Lawrence county, dig out your scrap rubber and turn it in It can be used again for tires for tanks and trucks and planes.

DWINDLING STATE REVENUES

ATTENTION has frequently been called to the loss of revenue which the national government will experience due to the curtailing of the sale of gasoline, automobile tires and motor cars. It has been pointed out that making up this loss through other assessments will be essential.

This is true. At the same time we ought not lose sight of the fact that our state and local governments too will suffer a big shrinkage in revenue because of the loss of gasoline and automobile taxes of various kinds.

According to figures provided by the U. S. Census bureau, taxes on motor fuel last year raised $915,000,000 or 25 per cent of all state tax collections and motor vehicle licenses $417,000,000 or 11.6 per cent of state revenues. Thus we see that more than a third of state revenues come from the motor and gasoline industry in the 48 states last year.

In a recent article in Domestic Commerce a Commerce Department publication, H. P. Warhurst declared recently that restrictions on the operation of motor vehicles will reduce the yield from all state-imposed general tax levies that apply to the automobile and many related trades. Furthermore, the declining use of automobiles will reduce the value of properties serving the motoring public and this too will reduce the state tax yield. And the local communities will suffer as well as the state itself.

All of this means that while the federal government is increasing its revenues so far as possible by the increase in income and other taxes the states and local communities face declining revenues. It is all the more important therefore that our people at home insist that expenditures of states and communities, not essential toward winning the war, be kept at a minimum. This was done during the first World War and it is all the more important that it be done now. Shortage of materials and labor, of course, will tend to halt the spending of public revenues in the states, counties and cities.

However, after all the best deterrent to local expenditure that can be curtailed or avoided is Mr. Public Citizen himself. While federal appropriations have mounted skyward rapidly due to the necessity of winning the war federal tax rates must follow. We can certainly remain tax conscious back home and see to it that state and local levies are frozen to as low levels as possible. One way to see that this is done is to avoid all public waste and non-essential public expenditure.

Our total national debt is not the federal debt alone. It includes the debt of our states, our counties and our smaller political and geographical divisions. It is essential that we keep this in mind.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM

One phase of the United Nations war against the Axis powers is being won. Another victory must be achieved before American soldiers and sailors can have placed in their hands the implements for the destruction of Nazi-Fascism.

On January 6, about four weeks after Pearl Harbor, President Roosevelt set what seemed to be fantastic production goals for the American people. One of them was 60,000 planes in 1942 and 125,000 in 1943.

The aviation industry has now reached a production of 5,000 planes a month and the total, according to the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America, will soon exceed the combined production of the enemy—German, Japan and Italy—also the production being squeezed out of occupied countries.

This is a situation which would constitute cause for the utmost confidence if it were not for one factor—shipping. As yet there remains unsolved the problem of transporting men and equipment to the firing lines.

United States soldiers who are in distant war posts are well equipped, especially as compared with the AEF that went to France in 1917-18. In this war the shipping demands are almost inconceivable. As an example, 100,000 tons of shipping is required to take an expedition of 10,000 men overseas.

And the shipping lanes, which run to Murmansk and to Britain, to Australia and Pearl Harbor, to Alaska and around the Cape of Good Hope and up through the Mozambique Channel to the Red Sea, are long and numerous.

Through a stimulation in construction and also through a more deadly warfare against the submarine menace in the Atlantic, the United States must dispose of the shipping problem before its power can be expressed fully on the field of battle.

NEED IN CHINA

From hard-pressed, back-to-the-wall China comes the same message that accompanied the fall of Burma. "We must have planes if we are to beat the Japs." "Because the courageous Chinese lack air power, the Nipponese are threatening to join two drives in the Chekiang-Kiangsi campaign.

Which lends poignancy to the plea of Lieut. John Donovan of the famed Flying Tigers, which reached his mother just behind a telegram announcing his death in action:

"If the United States or any other country is interested in fighting the Japs it is about time they should get some equipment and personnel over here. If the Army were to take over today, they would ground every plane that we have. Yet we fly these ships day in and day out."

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILD'S DAILY NAP IMPORTANT

Young children should always have afternoon naps. During the present emergency the afternoon rest period is more important than ever before. It will render the tot less prone to fears and will also give his mother more time.

Any little child can be trained to take a nap regularly each afternoon, though not all parents succeed in getting him to do so. Some parents just seem unable to suceed at it at all. A few of them, indeed, should give it up. The next best thing for these few parents to do is to try to get the youngster quiet for a regular period each afternoon, through reading or quiet amusement.

Success at cultivating the cooperation of the little child depends on many other factors, chiefly the degree of cooperation won from him in scores of other situations up to now; also on his general health, appetite, and sleep at night; on how regularly he is fed and put to bed by night or day; how fatigued or excited or ill-controlled is mother or nurse.

It is highly essential that the tot go for his nap every afternoon in his own home and without exception. It is very difficult for the child to respond for an afternoon nap if away from home or allowed to omit going to bed for a nap occasionally.

See that your tot is not too weary or excited at nap time. Try to get him off to bed in a happy mood. Lure him there if you can. Failing to do so, just pick him up and carry him to bed; but on the way and while helping him prepare for bed, talk of something so appealing to him that he will turn from resistance to cooperation.

If, however, you know he is likely to get up, stand or play after you leave, say to him: "You must not get up." Then go, leave his door ajar, and linger where you can see him and he cannot see you. The moment he rises to his knees or feet, go to him and spank him. Tuck him in again and proceed as before. Continue with this until he is trained.

Some children might rise four, five or more times, and therefore, be spanked as often; a few might hold out longer. Some might require five, six or more days to be effectively trained.

ONE FOR WISCONSIN

Ever since the late Robert La Follette represented the State of Wisconsin in the United States Senate, Wisconsin has been referred to as the "Independent State of Wisconsin," and it has been considered by the conservative citizens of this nation as being dominated by Socialism. However, the citizens of Wisconsin are a peaceful people. The citizens of Milwaukee have for years been described—considering the citizens of some other cities of the Union—as the most law abiding people in America. Milwaukee has a very creditable record, and so have the citizens of the state itself.

When Congress passed the National Labor Relations Act, it laid down general rules governing labor disputes. And the question has arisen: Does this mean that the individual states have no right to pass laws on this subject?

Wisconin recently passed an act known as the "Wisconsin Employment Peace Act." It prohibits employees from coercing or intimidating another employee or from intimidating his family, picketing his domicile or injuring his person. It also prohibits employees from preventing others from working by mass picketing, threats or force.

The contract between a union and a large manufacturing company ran out. Net terms could not be agreed upon and a strike was called. Some employees wanted to stay at work. Violence developed. The company got an order from the state courts ordering the union to "cease and desist from mass picketing, threatening employees, obstructing or interfering with the free use of public streets, roads and sidewalks, and picketing the domiciles of employees."

The union appealed directly to the Supreme Court of the United States, but Justice Hughes ruled that the state act was constitutional, stating:

"We fail to see how the inability to utilize mass picketing, threats, violence, and other devices which were here employed, impairs any of the rights guaranteed by the Federal Act."

A state may regulate strikes so long as it does not infringe on the rights granted labor under the National Labor Relations Act.

TIPPING HOTEL DOORMAN

"Should one tip the doorman of a hotel?"—Paul.

Answer: If he does nothing more than open the door of your arriving taxi, take your bag and hand it to an attendant within the door, you owe him thanks only. But if he performs extra service, such as making change for your taxi or doing guide or porter duty or getting a taxi for you, a small tip should be given to him.

If you are a resident or habitue of a hotel it would be good policy to occasionally give the doorman a substantial tip.

Question: What is proper to say when introduced to someone? 2. When departing who should say, "I am very pleased to have met you."—Uncertain.

Answer: (1) "How do you do." (2) Whoever thinks of it first. The one to whom it is said should reply, "Thank you."

If this introduction was a man to a woman, the man should say it and the woman should reply, "Thank you."

Question: We have had a discussion regarding the etiquette of wearing gloves. A friend says that a woman should remove her gloves before shaking hands. Is this correct?—I. E.

Answer: Do not remove them and do not make excuses for leaving them on.

Question: I have a very small bedroom — 9x12 — for which I am about to buy a new bed. Could you suggest something that will give me a maximum of space around it?—A. A. A.

Answer: Buy a single bed—a four-poster, with low posts and very little footboard if your other furniture warrants an Early American bed. A daybed without head or foot board or a studio couch will give even more surrounding space.

Pact With Russia Raises Question
Russian Democracy Hard To Define
Now Lined Up With United Nations

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Maybe it was unjust to the Soviet Republics to accuse 'em of a fondness for Nazism because they had that compact with the Reich prior to Herr Hitler's attack on them, as an accompaniment to the outbreak of war between the Axis and the world's democracies, now the United Nations.

It was a compact that's beginning to be explained, directly following the Yankee-British-Chinese combination, as a United Nations nucleus in opposition to the totalitarians in general, but Germany and Japan in particular. Not, indeed, that the Soviets are yet aligned against Japan, like this country, the British and the Chinese, but the assumption is that they will be shortly. And, at any rate, they're identified with the United Nations' program for a mutually satisfactory and permanent peace when the Axis is licked flat enough to have such a piece imposed on totalitarianism.

The Soviets and the Nazis did have a compact, which was supposed to be anti-democratic.

The Soviet folk, having advertised their ideology ahead of the rest of the overseas bunch, were the earliest to be hated by the democracies, on the ground that they were Communists. They also were blamed for having been unnecessarily rough with the czar and members of his family—not that czarism was indorsed, but the notion was that Communism had overdone matters, in killing him and everybody else that ever had been identified with his system and all others connected with it, hereditarily; perhaps not maliciously.

Fascism Loses Favor

Then Fascism developed, under Mussolini. After passing the experimental stage, that also became democratically unpopular.

Next Nazism followed. Managed by Herr Hitler, Nazism became worse loathed than Fascism—as more dangerous if not more despicable. Communism, though, had first start. Nazism had to have a bit of time to catch up with it. Congressional Investigators Ham Fish and Martin Dies were on the Communists' trail before Signor Mussolini's and Herr Hitler's doctrines had been fairly advertised. Even yet it's hard to call off Investigator Dies from the Com-

A Question Of Delegates

WASHINGTON, June 19. FOR SOME TIME after we entered the war the White House held to its position that there was no longer either time or place for politics in the Administration schedule. The crisis called for complete concentration upon winning and all forms of political activity were to be banished for the duration. The President let it be known that he was not now "interested in politics."

IN THAT admirable attitude most people were in accord and no one thought of dissenting until Mr. Roosevelt publicly abandoned his own precepts and gave unmistakable evidence of very active political interest indeed. When that happened, journalistic observers were confronted with the problem of whether entirely to ignore the facts or to comment frankly upon them. If ignored, not only would Presidential political activity undoubtedly continue but the smaller Administration politicians, emulating White House example, would cast aside pretense and go whole-heartedly political.

ON THE OTHER hand, full and free discussion of the renewed White House interest in politics at least might result in imposing a certain restraint, which would be in the national interests." At any rate, the entire openness of Mr. Roosevelt's recent political acts is such as to make absurd any suggestion of impropriety about commenting upon them. In fact, the lack of concealment seems to compel comment, lest the idea become generally accepted that no matter what this President may say he can do as he pleases with complete immunity from criticism, which is certainly not a healthy condition, war or no war.

THE MOST FLAGRANT exhibition, of course, was his appointment of Mr. Frank Hague's candidate to the Federal Bench, an act so clearly political that it shocked some of Mr. Roosevelt's own friends, such as

OLD ROADS

Gone the days of "I don't care!"
Days of "nothing new to wear!"
Days of "never mind the price.
What we want is something nice."
Now in freedom's time of strife
Comes a sterner way of life.

Gone the days when clerks will say:
"Take it. All the year to pay!"
Gone the silk and satin times.
Now important coins are dimes,
And until the war clouds lift
Back we go to practice thrift.

Back we turn to common sense.
Taking thought about expense.
Darning hose and mending shoes;
Keeping old stuff fit to use.
Done with luxury's lavish mood,
Back we go to wholesome food.

We shall learn and know it well
What our grandsires tried to tell!
"Work's the only way to health!
Thrift's the surest road to wealth."
And, once done with luxury,
Stronger, happier all will be.

HAPPIGRAMS

by ERICH BRANDEIS

Last Sunday I made a discovery which was so thrilling that I think I ought to share it with you.

It was a nice day, not too warm, not too cool, a friendly sun overhead.

I was sitting in my garden, somewhat bored, when my wife said to me, "Let's take a walk."

"A what?" I asked.

"A w-a-l-k, walk", she replied. "You know, you put one foot forward then the others and all of a sudden you find yourself moving."

Somewhat silly, I thought, but on the walk we went, our dog romping along. And, as we strolled along, leisurely, I discovered that there were wild flowers blooming along the road and baby rabbits chasing each other in play. And there were two pheasants taking a stroll just like ourselves. And there were bright yellow orioles and robins and wrens. There were neighbors sitting on their porches, saying "Howdy", and kids playing.

It seemed a bit strange—no gas stations, no frankfurter stands, no dust, no swearing, sweating Sunday drivers—just peace and beauty and friendliness and quiet.

And then it dawned on me that I had discovered LIFE!

The Great Game Of Politics

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, and for which no one has offered a defense. But the most revealing instance was the recent White House conference between the President and Mr. James A. Farley over the New York political situation. It was the President who asked Mr. Farley to come, not Mr. Farley who sought an audience. He had not seen the President for more than a year.

MR. FARLEY, who once ran Administration politics but lost favor because he thought Mr. Roosevelt ought not to seek a third term, is chairman of the New York State Committee. He is supporting Attorney General Bennett for the Gubernatorial nomination to be made in August. Evidence was given that Mr. Roosevelt preferred Mr. Owen D. Young or Mr. Poletti, or someone else. However, Mr. Bennett's candidacy grew steadily stronger and it became fairly clear a couple of weeks ago that he probably would be nominated. Then Mr. Roosevelt sent for Mr. Farley to "talk things over." Then he sent for Governor Lehman to "talk things over." Later, Mr. Roosevelt said he had "made no promises," but it is accepted that he will not, as was expected, oppose Mr. Bennett with a candidate of his own.

TWO THINGS stand out as a result of these two conferences—first, that the President is no longer in position to give Mr. Farley political orders; second, that the President, in 1942, is thinking of 1944. Upon no other theory can his anxiety about the Gubernatorial nomination this summer be explained. No question of national unity is involved. There is no possibility of anyone hostile to him being named. There is no issue of foreign policy or war management. Why then, with the vast responsibility of winning the war on his shoulder, should Mr. Roosevelt be so concerned about this nomination?

NO MAN EXPERIENCED in politics will have to be told the answer to that one. It is clearly a question of delegates to the 1944 national convention. It could be nothing else. Every politician knows that if Mr. Bennett is the next Democratic Governor of New York, the State delegation to the national convention will be largely composed of men friendly to his administration. As Mr. Farley is his chief friend and supporter, it would, in effect, be a Farley delegation. If the war is still on in 1944, beyond doubt Mr. Roosevelt will be renominated and re-elected. Unless he had done some unforgivable thing or had suffered some physical or mental breakdown or something untoward and now unforeseen had occurred, it clearly would be against the national interests to change—and few would want to.

HOWEVER, IF THE war is over in 1944, Mr. Roosevelt may not want to be "drafted" for a fourth term, but he certainly will want to name the Democratic candidate. In the latter contingency his choice is believed to be Vice-President Wallace. In either case the New York delegation would be essential. Hence, Mr. Roosevelts' interest in either controlling it himself or having it controlled by friends. Hence, his invitation to Mr. Farley, who understands very fully the situation—and Mr. Roosevelt—to "talk things over." If there is any other explanation of present White House politics, it would be interesting to know it.

Retailers To Hear About Ceilings On Goods' Prices

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 19.—More than 450,000 retail shopkeepers in five eastern states and the District of Columbia were getting ready today for the visits on July 8 by an army of 50,000 volunteers who will tell them all about price ceilings.

The volunteers will be taken from Civilian Defense rolls, according to Sylvan L. Joseph, regional director of the Office of Price Administration, and their calls will be made as "friends" and not as "snoopers."

"Obviously, it has not been possible for the majority of retailers to come to OPA for help, nor will it be possible," Joseph declared. So through the properly informed volunteers he will bring the OPA to retailers to explain in detail how they can comply with the OPA regulation requiring posting of ceiling prices.

Blackout Here Is Army Order

Test Is Ordered By Army And Rules Issued Must Be Obeyed

In the minds of many citizens just now there is a question as to whose idea the proposed dawn-to-dusk blackout is. The Lawrence County Council of Defense today answered the question. The practice blackout is ordered by the U. S. army first fighter command.

The army authorities want to make the test in order to see what steps must be taken to perfect blackouts if and when they become necessary.

The blackout here will be only a practice one but the rules must be obeyed. The army authorities want the civilian population of inland cities to learn what is to be done if it becomes necessary to black out cities because of bombings.

From 8:30 p. m. June 25 to 5:30 a. m. the following day, citizens are expected to comply with the blackout order. For one half hour during the night, lights in homes must be extinguished or windows and doors must be so covered that no light will be seen outside.

The balance of the night lights should be dim. Exterior lights should be extinguished and windows and doors so covered that only a pencil of light gets through.

Navy Week Enlistee Likes Military Life

One of the Navy Week volunteers, Donald M. Maxwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Maxwell, 705½ Cestnut street, reported to Chief D. C. Ritchie that he is enjoying his first weeks in the Navy.

Maxwell, an apprentice seaman, is undergoing six weeks basic military training at the United States Naval Training Station, Newport, R. I.

Defer Conventions, Plea Of Eastman, War Transport Czar

Washington Chief Calls For Abandonment Of Fairs "For Dunation'

Defense Transportation Czar Joseph B. Eastman today in Washington had called for postponement of all county and state fairs, as well as non-essential conventions, meetings and group tours, for the duration of the war.

Eastman said "there is good reason to hope" that government controls over travel can be avoided, provided civilians restrict their use of trains and buses. He cautioned against pleasure trips other than vacations.

Civilians the naiton over, he said, should defer all mass movements not closely connected with the war effort.

Chambers of commerce in many cities, it is learned, have given warm endorsement to Eastman's plan.

Natural pearls are produced by the oyster without the intervention of man. They consist of a series of concentric circles of nacre clear to the center of the pearl. Cultured pearls consist of a layer of mother-of-pearl over a bead inserted into the oyster. Its effect corresponds to plated silver or gold instead of sterling silver and solid gold.

Allegheny Hoards Huge Sugar Stock, Tabulation Shows

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 19—Allegheny county residents who registered for the sugar-rationing program on May 4 admitted hoarding more than a half-million pounds of sugar, registrars' reports revealed yesterday.

A total of 287,325 stamps—each good for one pound—were removed from books issued to signers who had more sugar than they were allowed, W. D. McCoy, Board of Education statistician, reported. He said 1,826,571 war ration books were issued in Allegheny county.

'Too Many Trying To Dodge Combat,' Stimson Warning

War Secretary Says Many Officers In Washington Due For Shift

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Declaring that there has been "pressure on the part of a good many people" to get army commissions in the nation's capital, Secretary of War Stimson stated yesterday that many officers soon will be transferred from Washington to active field duty and that their tasks would be taken over by the Army Specialists Corps.

"I think there are far too many officers here," Stimson said. "There has been pressure on the part of a good many people to get into an Army uniform without doing combat duty."

Stimson explained, however, that it was necessary at first to put a large number of men in Army uniform to handle the huge volume of war work in Washington.

Formation of the Army Specialist Corps, comprised of civilians unfit for combat duty will relieve this pressure for manpower and permit many officers to go on combat duty, Stimson explained. The secretary added that political and personal considerations will be excluded in the appointment of men to the specialist corps.

Will Have Exams For Stenographers

Civil Service Examination Will Be Conducted In High School Monday

An examination for junior stenographers and junior typists for vital work in the war program at Washington will be held Monday, June 22, in the senior high school, Lincoln avenue, New Castle, Pa., at 9 a. m.

The need is critical for the successful prosecution of the war effort. The age limit has been lowered to include persons 18 years old, on or before Oct. 1, 1942. The salary is $1260 for typists and $1440 for stenographers. Thirty-five words a minute in typing and 96 words in stenographic dictation are required. The high school typewriters will be used. Applicants should bring pen, ink and pencils.

Living conditions are improving owing to the withdrawal of certain agencies to other cities. Chances for advancement continue to be excellent for qualified persons.

Carnival Plans Children's Day

Saturday Admittance Free; Show Army-Navy Net Was $326.34

Children's day will be celebrated Saturday at the Cetlin & Wilson shows at Dean park.

Youngsters will be admitted free at the gate, and from 1 to 6 p. m. rates on all rides will be reduced to five cents. Free acts—featuring the Six Queens of the Sky and the antics of Chico the Chimpanzee, trained enough to typewrite—will come at 4:30 p. m.

Carnival officials reported today that $326.34 was raised at Wednesday's show for the Army-Navy Relief fund. The show, in addition, will donate to the New Castle City Police Pension fund 15 percent of the Wednesday gross, less taxes.

The Cetlin-Wilson open-air "bond sale window" at East Washington and Mercer streets today had netted over $1,000. Over $500 in bonds were sold on Thursday.

Officials said the Cetlin-Wilson outfit paid $4,454.50 in amusement taxes for the month of May.

The carnival's final day will be tomorrow, and Monday it opens in Niagara Falls as a side attraction to the annual New York American Legion convention.

Annapolis Class Hears Admiral

King, At Graduation, Says 'Men As Nothing Without Morale'

COMMANDER CALLS THEM 'BROTHERS'

(International News Service)

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 19.—Addressing the graduating class at the Naval Academy, Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet, today stressed the importance of mechanized warfare, but emphasized that "machines are as nothing without men—men are as nothing without morale."

"This is a day of specialization," King told the graduates, "and it is duly exemplified in the armed forces—in the navy in surface vessels, aircraft, submarines and in amphibious troops; in the army, in the ground forces, the armored forces, the parachute troops; and the air force."

In pointing out the absolute necessity for co-operation, which in itself is a great bolster of morale, King cautioned, "do not allow yourselves to become prejudiced because another wears a different uniform and is skilled in the uses of different weapons.

"Let there be no narrow-minded jealousy, no bootless controversy, but, rather, a firm determination to gain the victory by whole-hearted co-operation, and by thorough appreciation and cordial emulation of the capacities and abilities of all those who are, in fact and in deed, your brothers in arms.

"To this end," King went on, "we have only to bear in mind the association of the United States armed forces in Bataan, on Corregidor, in Java, in the Coral Sea, and, more recently in the actions off Midway and in Alaskan waters, to have it impressed upon us that we are—all of us—working together for victory."

King concluded, saying, "In behalf of the officers and men of the sea-going forces of the navy—now in contact with the enemy throughout the seven seas—I welcome you as brother officers and shipmates."

No Decision On State Farm Show

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 19.—Pennsylvania officials were undecided today whether to hold the state farm products exhibition, which annually attracts 500,000 visitors to Harrisburg, because of the curtailment of automobiles and tires.

"We hope to maintain the fundamental features of the show," explained John H. Light, chairman of the state farm show commission, "but we have come to no conclusion about the 1943 exhibition."

H. Raymond Smith, state transportation coordinator, pledged that Pennsylvanians will do "everything in their power" to cooperate with Defense Transportation Director Josseph B. Eastman's appeal to restrict unnecessary travel in the interest of conservation.

The Naval academy at Annapolis, Md., has about 40 cooks to feed its more than 3,000 midshipmen.

News Briefs From City Hall

J. E. Thornton, chief of the Pittsburgh division of the FBI, Thursday afternoon paid a compliment to Chief of Police Willis G. McMullen and the entire local police department for their co-operation with bureau in not only assisting in the apprehension of criminals but also in efforts toward the prosecution of the war. Incidentally, Special Agent Joseph Wardell, who visited Chief of Detectives Ralph A. Criswell, praised the manner in which records have been kept in the bureau. It was organized during the administration of former Chief John F. Haven. McMullen was the first chief, Ray Shoealter, the second, and Criswell, the third chief of detectives.

Charles Davidson was the name and a local hotel was given as the address of a man who reportedly used a shoe in an attack on Emanuel Kourouglos, shoe-shop proprietor, West Washington street, Thursday evening. Davidson allegedly was having inner soles put in his shoes. After one had been inserted he took off his other shoe and struck the repairman. Mayor Charles B. Mayne fined the man $10 in today's police court.

Mrs. May Douglass, County Line street, en route home last night, had her purse snatched by a man wearing a brown sweater. Her sugar rationing card and $25.00 were in the purse, she informed police.

Tony Moses, 15, Morton street, is missing from home, a report at police headquarters stated today.

Ex-Jap Ambassador, Kurusu And 943 More Sailing Home

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 19 — The Swedish liner Gripsholm today is enroute to Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa, carrying nationals of Japan and Thailand from the Western Hemisphere to be exchanged for citizens of the United States, certain other American republics and Canada.

Sailing on the vessel as it left Jersey City, N. J., last night, were 495 Japanese and Thai officials and 602 non-official Japanese and Thais. Among the Japanese were ex-ambassador Kichisabura Nomura and Special Envoy Sabura Kurusu, who were conducting negotiations in Washington on behalf of their government last December when Pearl Harbor was attacked.

Enroute to Lourenco Marques, the Gripsholm will stop at Rio De Janeiro to pick up 403 additional Japanese nationals, including diplomats, from Brazil and Paraguay.

About the same number, 1500, of American and other western hemisphere nations are leaving Japan on the steamship Conte Verde and will be exchanged at Lourence Marques for the Japanese. The Americans will then return to this country on the Gripsholm.

The State Department made public a list of American diplomats, officials, correspondents and their families who were being repatriated, including Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan and his wife, and Willys R. Peck, former minister to Thailand and his wife.

Gas Rationing Stickers Plan For Autos Now

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The office of price administration today announced that colored stickers, to be displayed on the vehicle, will be issued to east coast motorists under the permanent gasoline rationing program as one move to prevent chiseling.

Joel Dean, OPA fuel rationing chief, said the stickers will inform the public as to the type of ration book issued for the vehicle on which it is displayed.

"With the stickers on the cars, residents of every neighborhood will know who among them has a coupon book he doesn't deserve," he said. "At the same time, essential motorists will be protected against being falsely accused of possessing undeserved ration books."

The stickers will be made in four colors, one for each type of coupon book issued for passenger automobiles and commercial vehicles. The "A" stickers will be colored black, the "B" stickers green, the "C" stickers red and the "S" brown.

The new rationing program will go into effect July 15.

New State Relief Grants Are Effective In August

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, June 19. — The new state relief grants, representing the first increase in public assistance in almost six years, will benefit approximately 277,000 people—mostly widows and children—the department of public assistance disclosed today.

The increased grants, which were announced by Gov. Arthur H. James, will boost the shelter and food allowances of 74,000 persons on direct relief and 203,000 dependent children and mothers. Due to administrative delays, however, the new schedule will not go into effect until August 1.

The increased grants will cost the state approximately $2,760,000 a year, with higher federal grants to widows and children, raising it to more than $3,000,000.

Allowances for fuel and clothing were not increased on the ground that "cost of living studies indicated that the most critical relief problem was the cost of rent, with food next."

The state board of public assistance, which approved a schedule of increased grants last January 22 but was forced to postpone its effectiveness until it could secure the governor's approval, will meet next Wednesday to consider making the increases apply to 98,000 needy old people also. It was pointed out, however, that even if this were done there was no assurance that an individual's old age grant would be increased, as it is based strictly on a person's need and is not a fixed pension. The present maximum old age grant is $30 a month. Blind persons are not affected by the increase, as their $30 a month pension can be changed only by the legislature.

Increases Allowed

The new relief schedules increase the maximum allowance for rent from $9.75 to $18.05 a month, applicable however, only in Allegheny county. Maximum allowances in other counties will be progressively lower, those in rural counties being increased from $6.50 to $8.70 a month.

Increases for food allowances are the same throughout the state. Single persons do not benefit, although their maximum monthly rent allowances have been increased from $5.85 to $7.80. The new monthly allowance for a two-member family will be $16.30, compared to $15.20 at present. Other food changes: Three persons, from $20.65 to $22.20; four persons, $26.10 to $28.05; five persons, $30.45 to $33.90, and so on up to 10 persons, whose monthly allowance will be boosted from $52.10 to $63.20.

Shelter allowances vary according to the size of a family and the county it lives in. Here is the way the maximum monthly rent allowances will be raised in various counties of the state beginning August 1:

$6.50 to $8.70—Huntingdon, Centre, Indiana, Jefferson.

$6.50 to $10.45—Fayette, Clearfield, Mifflin, Westmoreland, McKean.

$6.50 to $12.15—Bucks.

$7.50 to $12.15—Lehigh, Northampton.

$9.75 to $14.75—Cambria, Lackawanna, Berks, Erie, Luzerne, Lawrence, Dauphin, Blair.

The state bird of Iowa is the goldfinch, and of Kansas, the meadowlark.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

USE THE HOME GARDEN FOR FULL PRODUCTION

June is a busy month in the family vegetable garden.

Early planted crops, such as peas, spinach, lettuce, and radishes, are harvested and late-maturing crops are planted to take their place. Weeds are kept from getting a start by shallow cultivation and mulching. Thinning of plants to proper distances is another important job.

Beans of all kinds may be planted now. These include bush beans for dry and shall uses, bush limas, snap, and edible soybeans.

Beets and carrots are best for storage when planted late in June. Savoy, Danish and other types of cabbage planted now will mature in cool weather and may be used for sauerkraut, or for storing.

Celery is planted in June or early July, and Chinese cabbage and endive July 10 to 20 for winter storage. Kale may be set the same time as late cabbage and left in the garden until freezing weather for winter greens.

Sweet corn, summer squash, broccoli, lettuce, and cauliflower are other vegetables which may be planted in June.

Further information on vegetables may be found in leaflet 73 "Plan the Vegetable Garden," obtainable from the Agricultural Extension Association office, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

GROWER MAY RENEW THE OLD STRAWBERRY PATCH

With the picking season near completion, many strawberry growers of Lawrence County are considering the advisability of holding over the bearing patches for a second crop next year.

In renewing a patch for a second crop, the object should be to destroy most of the plants which have fruited and to save just enough to produce a full row of new runner plants for next year's crop.

With fertile soil comparatively free from weeds, vigorous healthy plants and a good stand, satisfactory results may be expected in renewing the patch. Under opposite conditions, it is not advisable to keep the patch. If it is decided to keep the patch, the following procedure is suggested:

As soon as harvesting is over, mow the tops rather high, removing most of the old leaves and avoiding injury to the crowns. Rake up the leaves and any remaining mulch and remove from the patch.

Broadcast on top of the rows about 400 to 600 pounds to the acre of either a high nitrogen complete fertilizer or a mixture of equal parts of superphosphate and nitrogenous fertilizer, such as sulfate of ammonia or nitrate of soda, if available.

Drive on top of the row with a spring-tooth harrow or other cultivator digging out many of the plants and loosening the soil in the row. One or two trips in the same direction over the row should be sufficient. Narrow the row to 8 to 12 inches with the cultivator. If the ground is very dry, it may be wise to omit the digging on top of the row with the harrow, but in this case the row may be narrowed to 6 to 8 inches and the plants thinned out in the row with the hoe.

Thoroughly cultivate the middles, dress up the remaining plants with a hoe, and tend the patch for the rest of the season as though it were a first-year planting.

Strawberry culture is more completely discussed in the Pennsylvania State College extension circular 181, "Strawberry Growing in Pennsylvania" which is available from the Agricultural Extension office.

LATE CABBAGE WIDELY GROWN CROP IN STATE

A recent survey made by farm management and vegetable gardening extension specialists of the Pennsylvania State College revealed that Penn State, Hollander, and other strains of Short Stemmed Danish Ballhead, Glory of Enkhuizen, Copenhagen Market, and Golden Acre were the most popular varieties of cabbage grown last year.

It was found that low cost of production and high quality accompanied large yields of cabbage per acre. High acre yields were influenced most by (1) selection of suitable varieties, (2) rotations including clover-grass sod or manure with winter cover crop, (3 sufficient lime applied to grow clover, (4) proper applications of commercial fertilizer, (5) well-grown properly set in the field, (6) careful soil preparation, (7) shallow cultivation often enough to prevent weed growth, and (8) control of diseases and insects.

ORGANIZATION LEADER HAS IMPORTANT TASKS

Community organizations depend on effective leadership. In this period of change, able leadership is especially important. In order to keep the group on the track in pursuit of common aims and objectives.

To do this, the leader must be a group planner. He must see the needs of the group and plan ways of meeting them. Today things are happening fast.

The leader is the group educator. He helps the members to see the advisability of a given procedure and of the methods proposed. Successful group action comes with concurrence by a good majority of the group. To achieve this may require much educational discussion.

He is the group harmonizer. People who think are bound to think differently because their backgrounds are different. The leader is successful to the extent that he is able to magnify the common interests of the group so that differences and conflicts will be subordinated. This is essential in enlisting the help of every member.

The leader is the group spokesman. Community life today demands that organizations work together. In its relation to other groups, someone must be able to state the group opinion. This involves, of course, a primary loyalty to the interests of the group of which he is leader. When the leader becomes more interested in himself than in the group desires, its confidence is shaken and his leadership wanes.

These are the four functions of the leader. If officers of organizations can perform these functions well they will do much in helping local groups better to serve the interests and needs of the membership.

KILL LICE AND MITES TO HELP LAYING HENS

Warm weather brings the usual trouble from lice and mites. Unless these pests are controlled, they will seriously reduce egg production of the poultry flock during the summer.

The easiest method of getting rid of body lice is to apply a thin stream of nicotine sulphate solution on the roosts about a half hour before the fowls go to roost. Such application can be made with an old oil can. Fumes of nictone sulphate released by the heat of the birds' bodies penetrates the feathers and kill the lice.

In order to kill the young lice which have hatched after the first application, a second treatment should be made in about 10 days. Use the material sparingly and spread it only on top of the roosts. To avoid any possible harmful effect from an accumulation of the fumes, the house should be well ventilated.

Because of their small size, mites are hard to detect in the poultry house. Then, too, the grayish color or "salt and pepper" effect may be similar to the color of the wood to which they are attached in the daytime. They appear red soon after they have sucked blood from roosting hens at night. Generally they are found in cracks around the roosts, dropping boards, and pits.

To keep mites away from the roosts, dropping boards, and pits, paint or spray with an effective red mite paint that penetrates the cracks well. To permit drying and thorough soaking into the wood, before the hens occupy the roosts, the red mite paint should be applied early in the morning. Eggs may be tainted by the odor or by contact with such materials carried to the nest on the feet of the hens.

If hens are kept from roosting at night in the nests, mites should not be a problem there. The nests should receive a thorough cleaning and treatment when the house is cleaned prior to housing the pullets.

Such materials as used crank case oil and kerosene which evaporates quickly should be applied frequently to be effective in keeping rid of mites.

Since these pests can be a problem on range, the roosts in shelters and brooders houses and the birds should be inspected frequently during the summer months.

Henderson Thinks Rationing Of Gas 'Equitable' Way

Tells Congressman That Tire-Saving That Way Is Most Convenient

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Price Administrator Leon Henderson declared today that nationwide gasoline rationing "is the most convenient and equitable" means of conserving rubber through control of the use of automobiles.

In a letter to Rep. Ludlow (D) Ind., Henderson stated that "it is possible that we may, at any time, be forced to divert overland transportation facilities now serving certain sections of the country to serve essential war needs in other areas."

Henderson declared:

"We realize that any ration program entails inconveniences and sacrifices. All of these programs must be considered in the light of the present world conflict, however. We must consider the gasoline rationing program a plan for trading today's many travel conveniences to provide essential transportation tomorrow."

Outlook For Business And Industries Given Attention By Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright—1942—Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

NEW YORK CITY, June 19.—Once a year I like to give readers a brief resume of some of the various leading industries. I am arranging these, however, alphabetically rather than in accordance with their immediate importance as they are changing their relative position each month. Following are my condensed analyses:

BABSON

Industries For Consideration

Agricultural equipment—An essential industry. Profits satisfactory, dividends liberal. Farm prosperity should maintain post-war sales.

Automotive—Practically entirely converted to war production. Profit margin down. Taxes up. War-end outlook favorable.

Aviation—Outlook for manufacturing companies poor. Planes will be "a dime a dozen". Transportation units should boom after the war.

Banks—Assets approaching new high. Low rates and government holdings make earnings moderate. Prices low in relation to book values.

Building—Slump in residential construction and inability to convert to war work have caused severe inflation. Should boom at war's end.

Chemicals—Vulnerable to excess profits tax. Industry in growth period raided by research. Has inflation merit. Subject to competition.

Dairy products—Aided by government and lend-lease orders. Noted for stability, income and increasing volume. Post-war exports uncertain.

Department stores — Shortages, rationing and price freezing offsetting large consumer demands. Immediate outlook poor. Peace would reverse picture.

Electrical equipment—Sales at record highs. Earnings good but subject to heavy excess profits taxation. Capitalization increasing. Renewal of appliance business and post-war exports will help cushion after-war adjustments.

Finance companies—Hard hit by elimination of consumers goods and restrictions on credit. Post-war outlook favorable.

Fire insurance—A basic necessity. Not materially affected by wars, booms or depressions. Conservatively managed. Excellent dividend record.

Gold mining—Suffering from government control of money, high taxes and operating costs. Immediate outlook clouded; but should come back with after-war inflation.

Grocery chains—Excellent management. Very stable. Acting well marketwise. No great growth ahead but the industry well balanced to meet problems of war or peace.

Machinery—A real "war baby". Record outputs and earnings. One of the first to benefit from war; but one of the first to deflate with peace.

Mail order—Sharply deflated due to war. Financial position strong. Long term outlook excellent.

Meat packing—Sharply higher demands reflect higher profits. Stable earnings. Low invested capital. Immediate outlook good.

Motion pictures—High wages increase attendance. Producing companies in good shape. Near term and future outlook okay.

Paper—Prosperous due to war. Has been aided by high demand and low imports of pulp. Backlog orders now on down side. Doubtful if demand in future can match recent requirements.

Petroleum—Inflation type industry. Research minded management. Taxes of little consequence. Long term outlook excellent; but immediate outlook uncertain.

Railroads—Helped by war. Sheltered from high taxes. Improving financial position. Current favorable position will not last.

Railroad equipment — Earnings satisfactory due to railroad and armament boom. No great tax burdens. Large export business may be ahead.

Rayon—Unhampered by restrictions but hurt more than helped by war. Tax situation now bad. Development of new products may make outdook promising.

Shipbuilding—Obviously booming. Submarine menace calls for sharply higher tonnage.

Steel—War's key industry. Output greater than ever. Earnings always erratic. Book values to decline as new government financed plants are written off. Cannot now foretell after-war conditions.

Sugar—Pacific war plus shipping shortages have temporarily helped earnings. Beet companies should have best season for many years. Strict price control may be bullish post-war factor.

Textiles—Erratic peace time earnings replaced by war boom. Normally suffers from over-capacity. Outlook uncertain. Good management essential.

Utilities — Government break-up orders are hamstringing the holding companies. Operating units in better position. Both hurt by war taxes.

Variety chains—Better situated than most retail outlets. Expected to weather post-war difficulties. Sales and profits should be well maintained.

Readjustments Advisable

At the moment the four industries which are prospering most are shipbuilding, meat packing, sugar and paper, while the four that are least prosperous are utilities, gold mining, finance companies and building. One is taking more or less of a risk to invest in any of the above eight groups at the present time. Rather, he should consider one of the average groups, such as fire insurance, dairy products, grocery chains and banks. Certainly, it would be wiser to take those that have suffered most, rather than those that have suffered least.

Latest On Rubber

Readers will remember that in previous columns I told of experiments which were being made on tires to apply asphalt gum or other mixture which required no rubber. (This is entirely different from retreading by cementing camelback on to an old tire.) Thiokol accomplishes exactly what I have in mind. The cost should be $6 to $8 per tire with a mileage of from 3,500 to 5,000 miles at a speed of 40 miles per hour. The material is made from caustic soda, chlorine, ethylene and sulphur. Caustic soda comes from salt; ethylene from corn, wheat or any agricultural waste; while Texas has a surplus of sulphur. Chroline is now being allocated, but the production can readily be increased. No adhesive material is needed or no natural or reclaimed rubber will be required. The plan is identical with my original forecast and should permit 1,000,000 tires a month being treated.

Cites Dangers Inherent In War Marriages

(International News Service)

BOSTON—Marriage may be a great institution but the failure of wartime wedlock is likely to leave wives, mothers and sweethearts on the rough end.

The opinion belongs to the Massachusetts Committee on Public Safety, which says: "War marriages are notoriously unsuccessful."

A spokesman of the women's division of the safety committee explained:

"In the cold light of peaceful breakfast, when the war is over, many a man and woman who married in the military fanfare of war see each other for the first time and what they see is sometimes dog-gone disappointing."

An antidote for a young girl's present loneliness is hard work. "Mothers," the spokesman pleaded, "don't let your daughters get the idea there is no tomorrow! Help your daughters withstand the unbalancing influence of flying flags and marching men."

The Hessian fly is considered one of the most important pests of growing wheat. It was first noticed growing in the United States in Long Island, N. Y., in the year 1779. It was supposed to have been introduced in straw bedding used by England's hired Hessian troops.

Asks Divorce From Scion Of Publisher

(International News Service)

CARSON CITY, Nev., June 19.—The five-month marriage of Mrs. Edith Virginia Lenington Lorimer and George Burford Lorimer, scion of the noted Philadelphia publishing family, had gone the way of the Nevada divorce courts today.

Mrs. Lorimer, prominent in eastern social circles, charged mental cruelty. Lorimer is now stationed at a southern army camp. They were married on February 16 at Daytona, Fla.

Britain Releases Huge Stock Of Women's Hose

(International News Service)

LONDON.—Good news for Britain's women was contained today in an announcement by the Board of Trade that 3,000,000 pairs of silk and silk-mixture stockings will be released to the public during the summer months.

The announcement follows a statement that 7,000,000 pairs of stockings had been released during the year ending June 1st. Not taking time to ask the obvious question: "Seven million pairs! Where did they go?" women all over Britain were adding up their nickels to see how many pairs they could afford when the release date was made public.

Then came another announcement. "This will be the last release of any silk or silk-mixture stockings for the duration."

You can imagine what Britain's women are praying tonight.

"Blue-Hooded" Slugger Gets 20-40 Year Term

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 19.—Eighteen-year-old John Simon, the "blue-hooded" slugger who terrorized the Overbrook district for 10 days with his attacks on women and children, on Thursday was sentenced to serve 20 to 40 years in Western penitentiary by County Judge William H. McNaugher.

Simon, of the West End, pleaded guilty to five attacks, and told the court simply, "I guess I didn't know what I was doing." He also said that he had snatched the purses to take money home to his mother, but in previous hearing, had testified that he used the loot to ride merry-go-rounds and ferris wheels at a carnival.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The 155-mm howitzer and its little brother, the 105-mm howitzer, are called "the two sweetest things of their kind in existence." The 155-mm gun will drop a 95-pound shell 12,000 yards away. The shell is lobbed high, and drops like a bomb giving it far greater authority when it explodes.

The 155-mm howitzers cost about $20,000 each. They are essential for our offensive army against the Axis powers and we need hundreds of them for they are a standard divisional gun and do twice as much damage as the old French-75, in World War I. You can help buy them for our army by your investment of at least ten percent of income in War Bonds every pay day.

Army enlistments are mounting day after day, reported Sergeant John T. Bilpuch, local Army recruiting officer in the Post Office. Five men enlisted today, three of them from New Castle, he continued.

"This brings the total for June to 47, with the month little more than half gone," said Bilpuch, "and, if the rush continues we will break all recruiting records this month. New Castle sub-station is running very close for the lead in the Western Pennsylvania district with Erie and Uniontown."

The New Castle men who enlisted this morning were Henry Gierlach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gierlach, R. D. 5, New Castle. Gierlach signed for the Air Corps. Richard A. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Smith, 507 Sheridan avenue; and Robert M. Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newton, R. D. 1, New Castle, were the other two from town. Both men enlisted unassigned.

Samuel I. Little, R. D. 3, Mercer and Marvin M. Savich, Box 574, Bessemer, who signed for the Coast Artillery Corps, were the other enlistees.

'Many Dates' Help Youth Make Wise Marriage Decision

So Believes Penn State Sociologist, Heard By Pastors Today

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, June 19.—Young people will probably make wiser choices of marriage partners if they date many different persons of the opposite sex rather than confine themselves to one too early in the dating period.

This is the opinion of Dr. M. E. John, associate professor of rural sociology at Pennsylvania State college, who spoke this morning before town and country pastors meeting here this week for their fifth annual short course. His subject was "Preparation for Marriage."

"Wide acquaintanceships with young people of the opposite sex help to educate the emotions and enable adolescents to discover their preferences," Dr. John said.

He cited studies showing that factors of a successful marriage include long acquaintance, a moderately long engagement, approval by the parents of both, the happiness of both sets of parents in their own marriage, wholesome adolescent relationships with parents, and moderate fondness for social activity.

In addition, both families should come from the same economic level, both young people should have relatively the same amount of education, and there should not be too wide a gap in their ages.

Present-day hindrances to a wholesome courtship include too strong an attachment to parents and choosing a partner for wealth or social position rather than compatibility, Dr. John added.

Furthermore, today's courtships must often be carried on in the environment of commercialized "thrill-selling" recreation. As a result, courtship has become too much of a recreational activity, and many young people expect impossible perfection of marriage. Parents are sometimes at fault by trying to choose the partner for their children.

Little Social Life For WAAC

First WAAC School To Be Inaugurated At Des Moines, Ia.

BUSY DAY SET FOR 440 AT SCHOOL

By ERWIN D. SIAS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

DES MOINES, Ia., June 19—Social life for 440 girls who make up the first army auxiliary corps school for officers won't be taboo, but it'll be very limited.

Putting it mildly, one officer on the regular army staff at the Fort Des Moines army post, declared today: "There won't be much time for social functions."

When he said that, he really meant it.

He outlined a typical day for the girls who before long will be in the army, two girdles and all, learning to become officers in eight weeks.

Most of the corps members, he believes, will be ready for bed when tattoo is blown at nine p. m.

Typical Day

Here's what the typical day for the "WAAC's" (unofficially termed "Wacks" by the army officers) will be like:

:00 a. m.—First call.
6:10 a. m.—Reveille.
6:15 a. m.—Assembly.
6:30 a. m.—Mess.
7:00 a. m.—Sick call.
7:20 a. m.—School and drill call.
7:30 a. m.—Assembly.
7:30-7:55 a. m.—Close order drill.
8:05-8:50 a. m.—Study period, lectures and army regulations.
9:00-9:45 a. m.—Study period, lectures on military discipline, proceedings and courtesies.
10:05-10:50 a. m.—Study period, mess management.
11:00-11:45—Physical training, how to instruct.

Mess call will be promptly at 12-5 p.m., and after lunch the girls will get back into the harness for some more schooling and drill.

And by drill the army means marching and maneuvering—out in the sun.

From two p. m. on, the girls will be hard at "brain work" in lecture courses on the WAAC, followed by close order drill, marching and more maneuvering, until 4:15 p. m.

At 4:15 they'll get recall followed by the first call for retreat at 4:50, assembly at 4:55 and mess call at five p. m.

From seven to nine p. m. will be more study period—then tattoo at nine, which tells the girls it's time for bed. At 10:45 they will hear call to quarters and taps at 11 p. m.

After outlining the somewhat breathtaking schedule, the officer observed that in his opinion the WAAC's will be ready to retire long before 11 p. m.

"You might call our school out here a teacher's college," he pointed out. "The girls will have to learn how to teach themselves as well as others."

While dating with men in the regular army isn't taboo, it is understood that the women will in time be officers and follow more or less the same lines that army officers follow in fraternizing with their subordinates, he pointed out.

No hard and fast rules have yet been applied to the women's social life, he explained. But he added they will have their day off—on Sunday—to do what they will.

And they can go to church at chapels provided for each faith, he said.

Can You Can?

By MISS ANNA MARIE QUINN
Home Economics Extension Worker, Lawrence County Agricultural Extension Association.

HOME DRYING OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

Families producing some of their food supply can have a varied winter diet by preserving their surplus crop in a variety of ways. Canning, storing, and freezing retain a large part of the food elements but drying and salting add variety and help a family to have an adequate supply of fruits and vegetables.

DRYING FOODS

In preserving fruits and vegetables for later use by drying, a large portion of the water is removed thus reducing the weight and bulk of the food and making it possible to store large quantities in small spaces. The cost of drying and canning compares favorably. Dried foods do not need hermetically sealed containers. Foods preserved in this way are convenient for use in the home and are easily prepared. The element of variety in the diet contributed by dried foods is also a point to consider.

All of the minerals are preserved in the drying process, but vitamin content is reduced. These facts must be borne in mind in planning meals using dried foods.

It is desirable to preserve as much of the original flavor and color as possible and this can be done to a great extent by starting with a good product and using care in the drying process. Some things to bear in mind are that: foods should be dried quickly as possible yet not so rapidly that the outside becomes crisp while a quantity of water is retained on the inside; the temperature should not be hot enough to cook the food yet it should be of a suitable temperature to cause evaporation of moisture; drying must be a continuous process in order to prevent the growth of organisms; the air must be kept in motion for stagnant air soon absorbs as much moisture as it can, then no further evaporation takes place; for best results foods should be cut into uniform sizes and distributed evenly in thin layers during the drying process; frequent stirring is necessary.

DRYING IN THE OPEN AIR

Fruits and vegetables may be dried in the sun if one can be assured of having consecutive dry, sunny days, and a high temperature. This method however, is not too satisfactory and food element losses are apt to be great due principally to the long period of time required in this process.

Racks to hold the food can be made of canvas, muslin, heavy wrapping paper, or hardwood cloth held in place by strips of lath. The food should be protected from flies and insects by the use of cheese cloth, mosquito netting, screen, or by placing in a specially constructed glass and wire frame. The racks can be placed on a slanting roof with a southern exposure. The trays should be placed so there is a good circulation of air from beneath the tray as well as over the food. The food should be stirred several times during the day. The reacks should not be placed outside until the dew is well dried in the morning and should be removed before the dew starts to form in the evening. It is also necessary to put the racks under cover during showers.

Sun dried foods should be placed in a slow oven for 20 minutes before storing.

DRYING BY ARTIFICIAL HEAT

Foods can be dried in an over, in a small commercially built drier to be used over a surface burner or in one of the various specially built dehydrators. When artificial heat is used, the heat must be kept low and constant and the food must be stirred often to insure even drying. For directions for building a drier see Farmers' Bulletin No. 984, "Farm and Home Drying of Fruits and Vegetables."

Begin drying vegetables at 110° to 120° F. and increase the temperature gradually to between 145° and 150° F. Fruits should be stared at around 130° F. and increased gradually to 175° F.

District Police Officials At F.B.I. Meeting Here

Alertness was the keynote of the third quarterly conference of the Federal Bureau of Identification, Pittsburgh division, held in city hall, Thursday afternoon. J. E. Thornton, chief of the Pittsburgh division presided. Several score of police officials from surrounding counties were in attendance.

Joseph Wardell, an FBI agent explained the construction of bombs and how to combat them. Later a motion picture showing the effects of incendiary bombs and how to extinguish them was shown.

Mr. Thornton told police they had a legal right to ask any persons they regard as suspicious to show his registration card and said that after June 30 forty million persons or one-third of the country's population will have been registered. He said there are some persons who were insincere in claiming they are conscientious objectors and explained that 52 percent of the investigations resulted in a A-1 rating or prosecution.

He asserted a neutral alien does not need serve in the army and draws a draft rating of 4C. However, he automatically bars himself from ever becoming a U. S. citizen. The army and navy alone can say whether or not they'll accept an enemy alien.

Mr. Thornton asserted there are 87,650 alien enemies in Pennsylvania. The Italians are by far in the majority, 70,866. There are less than 150 Japanese in this state.

He declared their movements are restricted. So far throughout the country, Mr. Thornton explained 8,844 were arrested by the FBI. In 1917, there were 6,300 enemy aliens arrested.

Work Of FBI

Describing the work of the FBI relative to enemy aliens he cited figures as follows:

Premises searched for contraband, 14,063; guns seized, 2,967; rounds of ammunition seized, 2,794; sticks of dynamite seized, 1,652; dynamite caps seized, 2,529 and dynamite fuse seized, 3,472 feet.

Binoculars seized, 543. He explained they were mostly of the expensive type; cameras seized, 2,345; swords, daggers and other dangerous weapons, 950. Movies and folders, showing coast lines seized, 25.

The FBI agent declared that the FBI has solved every code or cypher it has discovered in this country and said that under no condition can an enemy alien travel by airplane.

They cannot posses fire-arms, any war weapon, explosive, short-wave receiving set, transmitting set, signal code, cypher, camera, secret writing, or sketch of a military nature.

In event a naturalized citizen makes a remark concerning a group of men inducted, his citizenship can be revoked. Neither can they make any remarks which affect the morale of the nation.

He told his interested audience that the FBI in Washington, daily receives 100,000 fingerprints from national defense plants. He said the FBI does not furnish defense plants with criminal records of men.

If the army and navy deparments desire to, they can say whether or not such men can work on their contracts.

Norman Freeborne, local motion picture operator, gave his services to the FBI in displaying the films.

The FBI and police were welcomed here by Police Chief W. G. McMullen and Chief of Detectives R. A. Criswell and Finance Director Albert Hoyland in the absence of Mayor Charles B. Mayne.

LONG HAND OF COINCIDENCE

(International News Service)

LLANO, Tex.—Conrad and Howard Baldwin, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Baldwin joined the United States Army and Navy respectively. They both are radio men.

Mrs. Baldwin received a cablegram recently informing her that the brothers had a chance meeting and spent the day together—in Ireland.

A third son, James, is in a naval training school. He wonders if he'll meet his other two brothers—maybe in Tokyo.

Coast Guard Admirer

Although two-year-old Stuart Hamilton Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Jones of Boston, Mass., is too young to help in the war effort, he decided to get decked out in nautical regalia and pay his respects to the men of the U. S. Coast Guard. (Central Press)

FORSEES EARLY VICTORY

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA—A sudden end of the war and a victory for the United Nations was predicted by Sir Norman Birkett, member of the English High Court of Justice in an address to the American Law Institute.

"The war will be won by the close cooperation of the American and English people," he pointed out. "No man can say just how the end will come—but it will come suddenly."

Now 200 Groups In Hospital Plan Here

Civic, Commercial, Educational, Industrial Units Represented

A survey of the development of the non-profit hospitalization plan in Lawrence county shows that a highly diversified group of civic, commercial, educational and industrial organizations are represented.

Approximately 20 groups representing every section of the county are already enrolled for protection against unpredictable hospital bills in the plan sponsored by the New Castle and Jameson Memorial hospitals, it is stated.

These groups are composed of employes who have taken out the hospital-sponsored protection through their places of employment.

In addition many other prospective groups are in process of formation at the present time. All groups formed during June become effective July 1.

The number of these groups, it is pointed out by the Hospital Service association, should not be confused with membership in men, women and children because one group frequently represents a large number of families, it is announced.

The earth's axis continually points in the same direction.

CHECK GAS RATION CARDS

(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa.—In order to check up on X and B gasoline ration card holders, Police Commissioner Albert Carson has inaugurated an effective plan in Lancaster.

Under the system all holders of the high cards who are arrested for traffic violations will immediately be reported to the county rationing board for investigation.

The silly custom, once popular, of lifting the right arm and elbow to the level of the chin in shaking hands, originated when the Duke of Windsor, then Prince of Wales, developed a boil under his right arm. He was then obliged to shake hands so, and the method was taken up by the "smart set" for several years thereafter.

Charge Federal Agencies Abuse Draft Deferment

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Sen. Millard Tydings (D) Md., chairman of a Senate appropriations subcommittee, today charged that certain federal agencies had abused the draft deferment privilege and asserted that no government employe 25 years of age or younger should be excused from military service.

In a letter to Maj. Gen. Lewis D. Hershey, national selective service director, Tydings said:

"The committee is of the opinion that very few employes 25 years of age or younger have neither the education or the experience to make themselves indispensible to any major department or agency of government."

Rubber Cache Found In Mine

(International News Service)

SHAMOKIN, Pa., June 19.—Discovery of tons of rubber cached in an abandoned coal mine working precipitated a "rubber rush" by townspeople Thursday.

Men and boys carrying tools and containers converged on the mine as word of the find spread, and sizeable quantities of rubber were hauled to the surface.

George Arnold, 37, and his son, George, Jr., who were among the first to "stake a claim", recovered more than 3,000 pounds of rubber from the mine hole.

Moravia Host 'Back Home' Despite War, Tire Saving

Armed service calls and tire conservation were reflected in reduced attendance at Thursday's annual June reunion-homecoming of old-timers of Lawrence county's Moravia district at the Moravia Presbyterian church.

The good weather brought out almost 100, but leaders said that part of the younger crowd—now in the service—and families that always motor from a distance—now watching their tires—were missing. But some came from afar.

Descendants of residents of the Moravia section from 1796 to 1900 mingled and exchanged reminiscences and enjoyed a bountiful noon dinner and sports. The dinner was a basket affair.

So far as the reunion crowd is concerend, the war won't halt the annual meetings—for, as heretofore, the third Thursday of June of 1943 was announced as the time of the next observance.

No formal program took place. Informal fellowship reigned.

Reunion attendance honors fell to:

Most elderly woman attending, Mrs. Mary Gwin, seventh ward, New Castle; most elderly man, Herbert Leslie, of near New Galilee; attending from the greatest distance, George Shremp, of Slippery Rock; youngest grandmother, Mrs. Dolly Gwin Krepps, of Moravia.

Mourned by all who share in the reunions was the late Charles Leslie, active reunion booster, whose death came only last week. Mr. Leslie was one of about eight reunion participants who died in the past year.

Re-election of Mrs. George F. McConnell, of 917 East Washington street, New Castle, as president of the association came during the day. All 1941-1942 officers were renamed. They are: Mrs. Blanche Snodgrass, vice president; Mrs. A. T. Eckles, secretary, and Mrs. Maggie Wettich, treasurer.

Victors in the brief running races which enlivened the day were:

Young ladies' race, Mary Bratschie and Doris Krepps; boys' race, Monty McBride and Robert McKinley; girls' race, Barbara Marquis and Naomi Johnson, and young men's race, Wilfred Graft.

EXPECT BIG CROWD

Chris Coulthard, superintendent, Cascade park, stated today that if the warm weather continues he anticipates a thousand kiddies at Cascade park Monday.

EAST STREET JOB DONE

Removal of a sharp angle at the Aiken property, East street, has been completed, according to City Engineer J. Z. Street.

CURBS ARE SET

State street curbs have been set by the city. It was not known today when the state would pave the widened portion.

Volunteers For Sugar Rationing Service Asked

Seek Aid In New Quarters Of Sugar Rationing Board Next Week

Volunteers to serve as sugar rationing registrars were asked for today by Attorney William J. Caldwell, chairman of the Commodity Rationing Board, to serve next week in the Aiken School.

The rationing of sugar for canning is being moved from the court house to the Aiken School on Pearson street, effective Monday morning. Because the tire and tube rationing has been held up while sugar rationing was in force, it is necessary to keep Miss Margaret Preston and Mrs. William Nunley in the court house where tires, tubes, retreads and new cars will be rationed as usual.

Women who have had experience in office work, and particularly school teachers, most of whom have had experience in sugar rationing are asked to volunteer their services for a day or two days or any part of a day.

Women willing to serve for a short time in the sugar rationing registration are asked to report to the Aiken School on Monday morning and report to Mrs. J. W. Balentine.

The heavy rush of applications is over but there are still many people who have not gotten their canning sugar ration certificates. In order to expedite the work as much as possible the call for volunteers was made today by Mr. Caldwell.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

United States army trucks resemble the prairie schooners of our pioneers for utility, not for sentiment. These motorized covered wagons "get where they are going" with men and supplies.

The 2½ ton truck costs about $2,000 or slightly more than the purchase value of 100 of the $18.75 War Savings Bonds. We need thousands of these trucks. You can help pay for them by buying U. S. War Savings Bonds every pay day. Help swell the War Bond quota in your county.

Ellsworth Walter Dewberry, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Dewberry, of R. D. 2, Youngstown, road, has successfully passed his tests as a pilot in the United States Air Force, and will be inducted in Pittsburgh, Saturday. He will leave immediately for California, where he will receive a period of training. His last test, made Thursday, in Pittsburgh, was quite successful, passing with a rating of 105, which insures him a high rating as an army flier.

Ellsworth formerly owned a plane at the New Castle Airport, and is considered one of the best flyers in this part of the country, having to his credit several hundred flying hours.

For several years he has been associated with his father in the gasoline business. He is married, and has two daughters, Dianne and Patricia.

Ellsworth is the third son of the Dewberry family to enlist for present war service. Lewis, who has been in the service for more than a year, is in the anti-aircraft service, located in Australia, his parents having received a cablegram that he had arrived there several weeks ago. The third son, Frank, Jr., enlisted in the Marines, and is now stationed at Quantico, Virginia. He is attached to the Marines Air Force.

Consider Plan To Produce More Synthetic Rubber

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 19. — The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is investigating the possibility of boosting the nation's synthetic rubber production program to 1,000,000 tons a year, W. G. Kearney, of the B. F. Goodrich Co., Akron, Ohio, told the war-time convention of the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association at Harrisburg today.

"Since Pearl Harbor," he declared, "the synthetic rubber program, on paper has been extended, literally, by leaps and bounds in an effort to meet the deepening emergency. First the capacity of the four plants originally authorized by the defense supplies corporation—totaling a mere 40,000 tons—was increased to 120,000 tons. Then it was boosted to 400,000; then to 600,000; then to 800,000 tons.

"Now the feasibility of giving this program another boost of 200,000 tons is being investigated by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation," Kearney said.

Production of synthetic rubber must proceed on a 24-hour-a-day basis, he declared, in order to meet present demands as well as to be ready for the flood of orders after the war.

"RETONGA MADE LIFE A PLEASURE AGAIN"

Mrs. McBride Says She Had Lost So Much Weight And Strength She Could Hardly Stay Out Of Bed. Like Different Woman Now.

MRS. W. C. McBRIDE

Hundreds of well known men and women are coming forward to tell how the famous medicine, Retonga, relieved them of the tortures of nervous indigestion, weak, rundown feeling, aches and pains in the muscles and joints, loss of weight and strength, and similar harassing symptoms due to insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, the toxic wastes of constipation, and need of Vitamin B-1 for digestion, nerves, and strength. Mrs. W. C. McBride, well known resident of 1312 E. Washington St., Charleston, declares:

"Retonga made life a pleasure again for me. For about a year it looked like every bite of food I ate gave me indigestion and turned as sour as vinegar in my stomach. I got so nervous that I could hardly sleep, and I had to take a harsh laxative almost every day that came. I lost weight and strength until I could hardly stay out of bed.

"The prompt relief Retonga brought me was a veritable blessing. I eat anything on the table, my nerves have settled down, and I sleep like a log all night long. Those harsh laxatives stay in my medicine cabinet unused now. I have regained several pounds and feel like a different woman. I wish I could tell everybody about this grand Retonga."

Thousands praise Retonga. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Eckerd's and Pay Less Store.—Adv.

Pilots Sting 'Like Cobras,' Melbourne Writer Declares

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MELBOURNE, June 19.—Their nonchalance is a lesson in studied reserve, but when Uncle Sam's pursuit pilots start into action they are like so many striking cobras.

For hours — with the blistering rays of the North Australian sun parching the barren earth around them—these youngsters who know no master in tactical aeronautics—sit in their only slightly cooler officers' mess.

And at the advanced base where I watched them in action, officers' mess meant a palm roof over a dirt floor with a battered piano decorating one corner of the shelter and chairs arranged haphazardly about.

Sleeping? Watch And See!

Their appearance is deceptive—at first you believe them sound asleep. When you watch for a few minutes you notice that not one of them has taken his eye off the telephone around which their lives focus.

For when that rings with an insistent warning note it means the Japanese are coming, and that's when the pursuit pilots begin to get interested in the world.

Our arrival occasioned only a mild ripple of surprise. There were respectful greetings for Brig. Gen. Ralph Royce and Brig. Gen. William Marquat, heads of the inspection committee, but the Australian sun is no inducement for hospitable gestures.

Back to their chairs they went and sprawled out again. Not a word was spoken. Then the silence was broken by the telephone's pleading notes. Instantly those men were galvanized into action. They sprang out of those chairs like uncoiled springs and had tiny rubber life preservers around their necks and goggles over their eyes before the first rings had died out.

"Let's Go, Boys"

Captain William Hennon of Minneapolis, already famed for his Java exploits, grabbed the telephone and clipped a cursory "Yep." He hung up the phone and turned to his men with a short:

"Let's go, boys."

Like magic jeeps roared up to the mess, barely paused for their cargoes, and then raced off through the woods towards the airdrome.

"A couple of them are asking for it," Hennon said. "See ya in a little while."

Fifteen minutes stretched into 20, 20 into 25 and then back they winged, the squadron intact.

We clambered aboard jeeps and rattled out to the 'drome.

"What happened?" yelled Lieut. Edward S. Steere of Ashboro, N. C.

"Aw, hell, they didn't wanna play today," answered Lieut. Robert "Hap" Hazard of Modesto, Calif., springing out of his ship.

"Play, hell—they just didn't turn up," sadly amended Lieut. Jake Hutchinson of Long Beach, Calif.

HURT AT DEFENSE PLANT

Among those treated at the Jameson Memorial hospital Thursday for slight injuries received at the new United Engineering plant site, were Roy Long, aged 52, of R. F. D. No. 2, who had cement splasned in his eye; Charles DeGennaro, 32, of 923 South Mill street, who suffered a laceration of the scalp when he struck his head against some steel plates; and Ben Toth, aged 19, of 13 East Reynolds street, who suffered a laceration of the left hand while rolling some wire.

PATRICIA FORDNEY WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Miss Patricia Fordney, a member of the June graduating class at New Wilmington college, has been awarded a scholarship to Westminster college. Upon completion of her studies at Westminster, Miss Fordney plans to enter nurses' training.

Miss Fordney is a daughter of Mrs. Virginia Fordney and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Fisher of New Wilmington, former residents of this city.

New Castle Officers Factors In Early Morning Wedding

Take Part In 4 A. M. Ceremony At Camp Meade, Md.—Get Publicity

Two New Castle officers at Fort Meade, Md., did a night shift trick for Cupid, and got themselves widely publicized in a recent issue of the Baltimore Sun. A 4 a. m. wedding culminated the romantic affair, with Lt. Col. Frederick C. Reynolds, chaplain, conducting the wedding in his bath robe and Major Arthur B. Foster who witnessed the wedding in his bathrobe.

The bride was Miss Rita Sweeney of Annapolis, Md., of the judge advocate's office. The groom was Lieut. Donald E. Stingel of Pittsburgh. According to the Baltimore Sun the pair met in the Service club cafeteria some months ago. The meeting developed into a lunch hour romance and Major Foster of New Castle promised to be a witness when as and if they got married.

On a recent Sunday night they decided to take the plunge and after midnight left Baltimore for Fort Meade. They awakened Major Foster who donned his bath robe. He in turn awoke Lt. Col. Frederick C. Reynolds and Capt. William S. Nelson Jr. With the officers attired nattily in bath robes the group adjourned to the parlor of the bachelor officers quarters and there at 4 o'clock in the morning the knot was tied.

Lieutenant Colonel Reynolds is a brother of Chester P. Reynolds of Reynolds & Summers. Major Foster is the president of the New Castle school board.

Fists, Spikes Fly As Brooklyn Jars St. Louis Nine, 5-2

"Ducky" Medwick Sets Off Fisticuffs; Bums Pad Lead To 5½ Games

DETROIT WHALES YANKS AGAIN, 3-1

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 19.—Brooklyn's belligerent Dodgers, swaggering along five and a half games in the lead of the National League parade, and the challenging St. Louis Cardinals were scheduled to square off today in the second game of their crucial five-game series. Their meeting yesterday, in the only game scheduled in the league, resulted in flying spikes, followed by flying fists. After order was restored to the tempestuous scene at Ebbets Field, the Dodgers went on to a 5 to 2 victory over the Redlegs.

Ducky Medwick, ripping into second base after walking in the sixth inning, set off the fisticuffs. Martin Marion, slender Cardinal shortstop, took issue with the Brooklyn outfielder. Medwick tossed a punch at Marion as he arose from the swirling dust. Creepy Crespi, rough and ready little Cardinal second baseman, swung on Medwick in coming to the aid of his team mate.

Dolph Camilli, then at bat, rushed to the scene of the encounter, quickly followed by Dixie Walker, flatbush outfielder. Soon players from both teams were swinging wildly. After order was restored by Umpires Penelli, Ballanfant and Barlick, plus a phalanx of special police, the Dodgers scored a run to tie the count at 2-2. They rapped home three more in the eighth inning to sew up the game for Pitcher Larry French.

Players Banished

French doubled to send home the final two runs for his side. Dixie Walker suffered an injured leg in the hand to hand sixth inning jousting and was removed from the field along with Medwick and Crespi, who were banished by the men in blue for starting the slugging match.

Walker, however, is expected to be ready for duty today.

Over in the American League, where more tranquil scenes prevailed, the Detroit Tigers smacked the New York Yankees, 3 to 1. The triumph that gave the Detroiters a three to one margin for the series, resulted from some fancy four-hit pitching by Virgil Trucks. Spud Chandler allowed six hits and at the same time ended his five-game winning streak. It marked the second time this season that the Yankees had lost two straight, the Tigers turning the trick on the only other occasions, on May 1 and 2.

Chicago beat Philadelphia, 7 to 2, to go into sixth place, the third time in three days the clubs changed standings. Don Kolloway and Bob Kennedy, youthful Sox infielders, led the eleven-hit attack against Jack Knott, Al Shirley and Herman Besse with a double and two singles apiece.

Jake Earley, Washington catcher, smacked a double and two singles to drive in four runs and provide the main spark in a 7 to 1 triumph over the Cleveland Indians. Pitcher Early Wynn kept the Indians' seven safeties well scattered to assure himself victory after receiving the staunch hitting support from his battery mate.

The scheduled game between Boston and St. Louis was postuoned because of weather.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

John Babich, who pitched Newark to six straight victories is due for a stay in a hospital. A chip in his elbow must be removed . . . Ernie Pelai and Tommy Yarosz, middleweights, who fought here as amateurs a year ago, will box tonight in the Beaver Falls baseball park . . . ## Pirates-Phils Benefit Battle Thursday, July 9

John L. Hernon, Former New Castle Resident, Heads Gigantic Committee

PITTSBURGH, June 19. — The drive to make a great success of the Army-Navy Relief fund baseball game which the Pirates and Phils will play at Forbes field on Thursday night, July 9, a regular championship contest in the National league, has been launched on a big scale with the appointment of some of Pittsburgh's most prominent business men to aid in the movement.

When the baseball writers and radio sports commentators of the city were given charge of arrangements by President William E. Benswanger of the Pittsburgh club and President Ford C. Frick of the National league, the unanimous choice for general chairman was John L. Hernon, chairman of Pittsburgh chapter, Baseball Writers' Association of America.

General Chairman Hernon, a former New Castle man, has now named Frank L. Duggan, president of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, as chairman of the big benefit show, which will have many attractive side features in addition to the championship game between the Bucs and Phils.

Downs West Pittsburg, 5-4; Moose, Elders Keep In Fight By Winning

CROTON REPULSES INDIES' NINE, 7-3

Local baseball devotees got another generous helping of 1-A play as City Baseball league enemies skipped within the shadow of the first half finish tape Thursday night.

Outstanding developments of the evening centered around Bessemer's 5-4 victory over West Pittsburg which kept the fiercy "Cementers" in the top position; the Moose's 3-2 triumph over a strong West Side Tigers aggregation and the Elders' 8-3 verdict over the Slovaks, keeping the O'Leary-managed brigade on the tail of the league leader. In the fourth setto, Croton dropped the Lawrence Indies, 7-3.

Checking over the standing, Bessemer leads the Elders by a half game, closely followed by the Moose with 10 wins against seven losses.

Anyone of a half dozen clubs can still cop the ermine, that's how close it is.

"GASHOUSE GANG" LOSES

A trio of runs in the opening frame paved the way for Bessemer's 5-4 win over West Pittsburg at West Pittsburg.

Tomasello spread five hits to notch an important Bessemer victory. F. Braky was tapped for 10 blows. Moses, Stanley and Caldararo shared honors for Bessemer. DeMonaco connected safely twice for the losers.

GUNNETT CHECKS SLOVAKS

After posting a no-hit no-run game Sunday, Dory Gunnett toed the rubber again for the Elders Thursday night, turning back the Slovaks, 8-3, on Cedar street grounds, thus keeping his mates right in line for the First Half Banner.

Given a six run edge by the fourth Gunnett won in a walk. Brest and Huff spearheaded the attack for the second place Elders. Mingione clouted a homer and a single for the losers.

CROTON ON TOP, 7-3

Set back in its last three settos, Croton A. C. stepped along victory lane Thursday night, spanking the Lawrence Indies, 7-3, on Cascade field.

With the count deadlocked in the bottom half of the sixth, Morella rapped a hot double, driving in three runs to cinch the triumph. D. Robinson and Rico garnered a pair of hits apiece for Croton. Mosley poked a triple for the losers. Croton rolled in two double plays.

Moose Keeps Pace

"Fiz" Rodenbaugh's red-hot Moose nine kept in the heated tussle for the first half ribbon by nudging the West Side Tigers, 3-2, on Marshall field.

The triumph, the season's tenth against seven losses, left the Moose a game from first place.

Topping tonight's local baseball program, the Elders and Lawrence Indies battle on Cedar street grounds.

By winning, the Elders will gain a tie for first place.

On Cascade field, Croton entertains the Slovaks in what should be an exciting fracas.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Dabs of this and that:—

Personable Joe O'Leary, with a smile a mile long bordering his sunkist face, informed us today that two of his Elder pitchers have turned in no-hit no-run games in the City Baseball league. Handsome "Dolly" Hartman enrolled in the mythical hall of fame two years ago. Last Sunday, Dory Gunnett duplicated the feat . . .

Another welcomed caller, Michael "Jake" Babovsky, secretary of the City circuit, reminded this scribbler that "Ace" Bala, of the Slovaks, registered the first no-hit no-runner in the history of the circuit back in 1939. Are there any more local pitchers who rank a spot in this select circle? . . .

Mention of no-hit no-run gems reminds me that Audy Sugent, No. 1 City League pitcher in my book, tossed himself a dream game while twirling in the West Virginia State league several seasons ago. The Croton smoothi has come close to duplicating the feat several times. . .

Jimmy Foxx, now in the National after spending most of his good baseball years in the American, doesn't think the Brooklyn Dodgers are as outstanding a team in the N. L. as the Yankees are in the junior loop. He predicts a close fight with the Cards and Cincy Reds providing the major opposition for the Bums. . . .

Frankie Sinkwich, Georgia's football specialist, has enlisted in the U. S. Marine Reserve. He will be permitted to finish his senior year. . . . Don Gutteridge, who is making a sensational comeback with the Browns, committed his initial error of the season Wednesday. He accepted 181 chances before miscuing. . . .

Detroit will lose its ace catcher, George Tebbetts, following the series closing with Boston, July 11. He'll enlist in the army air corps. . . . Cliff Battles has been appointed as head basketball coach at Columbia, succeeding Paul Mooney, now a physical instructor in the Naval Air Corps. . . .

Look for City College of New York to announce abandonment of football for the duration. . . . Lieutenant Jack Dempsey has given up all civilian activities so that he can devote all his time to the Coast Guard's physical training program at Manhattan Beach. He even tossed aside the management of his Broadway restaurant and radio program.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL

Miss Margaret Fisher, of North Ashland avenue, physical education instructor at the Senior high school, who underwent an operation in the Jameson Memorial hospital recently, has recovered sufficiently to leave the hospital.

A barber will average about 400 snips in cutting a man's hair.

Otey Chrisman, 28, Blasts 65, Seven Under Par, In Hale America Event

MIKE TURNESEA SHOOTS 65, TOO

By H. C. WARREN
(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 19—It was 94 golfers against two at the second round of play in the Hale America open golf tournament, golfdom's principle 1942 contribution to the war effort, got under way today at the Ridgemoor Country club.

The two golfers in question were Otey Chrisman, 28-year-old Selma Ala., professional and Mike Turnesa, 33, of White Plains, N. Y., one of the seven Turnesa golfing brothers. This pair had the effrontery to regard the 36-36—72 par of the Ridgemoor Country club with so little respect hat they turned in identical cards of 34-31—65.

As play started today the eventual victor of the tournament was expected to be found among 63 players. These 63 included 48 who had shot sub-par golf and the 15 to play par in the first round.

Something like a miracle will have to take place to enable the 33 outside the pale of the sub par and par players to overtake the leaders during play today, tomorrow and Sunday. However, there was little indication that there would be a wholesale surrender move on the part of the contestants and it is believed that three-fourths of the original field of 96 will be in there pitching on the final day of play Sunday.

To date, Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., represents the class of the amateur contingent, this despite the fact that John W. Dawson of Hollywood, Calif., who hopes he is playing as an amateur, was one of the pre-tournament favorites. (Dawson is an applicant for reinstatement to amateur classification).

ROOKIE DELIVERS - - By Jack Sords

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 19—If, every time I sat down to do a piece, the news editor would pop in and say, "Get this angle up in the lead," "insert that 300 words down," and say such and such as the "final add," I'd go nuts and wind up with a batting average of .123 in this newspaper league.

So I wonder how come, then, that some of our big league managers—who weren't marvels themselves when their legs were young and springy—get into a state of mind where they "call the pitches" for their best moundsmen and signal their best batters "what to hit?"

I'll give up. Maybe it's the thing to do. John McGraw did it, and he was no slough as a manager. Bill Terry did it, they say, and he wasn't bad. Ray Blades did it and darned near ruined a great pitching staff.

A manager who doesn't do it is Mel Ott, Terry's successor with the Giants, and—considering the material he's got to work with—Ott's doing allright. Ott takes the position that he can't tell Carl Hubbell or Hal Schumacher much about pitching, or tell Johnny Mize or Harry Danning how to swing a bat. He believes big league ball players ought to do their own thinking, as a rule.

Danning is quoted as saying that it's a pleasure to go to ball park now, adding that "once you get to thinking, you rather like it."

Manager Ott, of course, reserves the right to make his own decision when to pull a pitcher, or when to walk a man, or when to play the hit and run or the bunt, but he doesn't pick out what ball a star batter should hit or signal a star pitcher what to throw with the count three balls and two strikes.

I'm inclined to think Ott is right. After all, these big league ball players get up there "on theiri brains" as well as on their legs or with their arms.

Changes Ridiculous

It always has seemed ridiculous to me to read about a manager, just because he's grown grey in service, "changing the batting style" of a player who has been up in the majors for years. Imagine a manager telling Arky Vaughn to adopt a more orthodox style of batting stance or telling Mel Ott to keep that right leg down on the ground just before he swings that bludgeon.

One thing I like about manager Joe McCarthy of the Yanks is that he seems to allow his ball players to think for themselves. You can go to a dozen ball games at the Stadium and you'll never get a glimpse of McCarthy. You'd never know he's around. But he's managing the ball club just the same. He let's the players use their own noodles most of the time but—in the clutch—when a smart play is to be made McCarthy's the guy who thinks it up. And, I might add McCarthy's clubs seems to be allright.

You can go over to Ebbets field and you'll see Leo Durocher hopping out of the dugout a dozen times a game, either to walk up to a batter to tell him something or to stroll out to the mound for a conference with his pitcher. Maybe Durocher is doing the proper thing—his club is in first place like McCarthy's—but from the press coop you get the impression that he's doing a lot of managing.

Les MacMitchell's Slump Main Topic

Saturday's Big National A. A. U. Meet In New York Will Tell Tale

By JACK MAHON
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 19.—What's wrong with Leslie MacMitchell, until about six weeks ago, the greatest miler in America?

That's one of the main topics of conversation heard around town these days as the greatest track stars in the nation gather for the National A. A. U. championships at Randalls Island stadium Saturday.

MacMitchell has been beaten in a half mile race and in his favorite mile three times in the last three weeks, and they are saying he is either burned out or mentally upset and will be beaten again this weekend.

Les can either redeem himself or prove the arguments of his critics in the 1,500 metre race on Saturday for he will be in there with the stiffest competitors he has faced all season.

Little Bobby Ginn, University of Nebraska flier and Leroy Weed, who ran him into the ground in the N. C. A. A. games at Lincoln, Nebraska, last week will be here for the A.A.U. meet. Ginn's time of 4:11:1 was the fastest of the outdoor season, and with such other speedsters as Jim Rafferty, Earl Mitchell and the sensational colored schoolboy star, Frank Dixon in the race, Les will have plenty of chance to make a comeback.

Theories Numerous

Concerning MacMitchell's slump there are many theories. We understand, from a good source that when Les learned, after a physical examination recently as a preliminary to his possible enlistment in the service, that he had a "slow" heart he became consederably unnerved.

This type of ailment is common among athletes and is not too serious but our informant insists the boy has been greatly concerned about it and that's why his racing form has taken a sharp drop.

Another theory is that "heart trouble of a much different type is behind Mac's revearsals of form. This source says the love bug has bitten the best Violet of the New York university track team and that's why he can't break down and beat the daylights out of his competitors.

Greg Rice, who should know, professes to believe that Les is simply in one of those inexplicable slumps that come to all athletes.

NEW YORK, June 19—The greatest show in American track history, a five hour carnival of stamina and speed, will begin a two day run over at Randalls Island Stadium this afternoon when the nation's finest track and field stars open the National A. A. U. championships for the benefit of the army emergency relief society.

Twenty one junior championships, open to all competitors who have never captured an A. A. U., N. C. A. A. or I. C. 4 A. Title, will be battled out this afternoon in addition to the 10,000 metre run and 3000 metre walk in the senior division.

The meet, sponsored by the Ohrbach A. A. figures to turn over between $75,000 and $100,000 to the AER fund. Most of the revenue will come from the advertising which packs a beautiful 140 page souvenir program which will be presented to the spectators free of charge. Over $40,000 was solicited personally by John J. Pershing, former commander-in-chief of the army and present honorary head of the AER society.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Citizens of New Castle, there will be a blackout test on the night and morning of June 25th and 26th . . . that is the blackout will start at 8:30 on the 25th and continue to 5:30 in the morning of the 26th . . . Now some of you have been turning your nose up at the thought of such a thing away inland . . Don't take this blackout lightly friends . . . it can happen here and it would only take one attack to make you wish you had practiced the blackout. Now we hear the question, what should we do in a blackout . . First make up your mind to stay at home . . . then be sure you have a room ready for the entire family to gather in during the blackout. This room should be on the first floor of the home, contain comfortable chairs, drinking water and a little food if you so desire. All windows should be sealed so that no light can be seen from the outside . . . Blankets tacked over the windows will do the trick . . . This room must be the only room that has light during the blackout . . . Don't in any case pull the main electric switch. If you need to go from this blackout room to other rooms in the house use a flash light but keep the light pointed toward the floor.

Let's see if New Castle can't have a perfect blackout the first time . . . let's all cooperate . . . it would be terrible if someone was fined 200 dollars because they were bullheaded and wouldn't cooperate . . . It's up to every person to see that his neighbor understands the blackout . . . Air Raid Wardens are being trained and soon all questions can be answered by those in charge in your district . . . It will be wise to stay home this first blackout test . . work out your own problems.

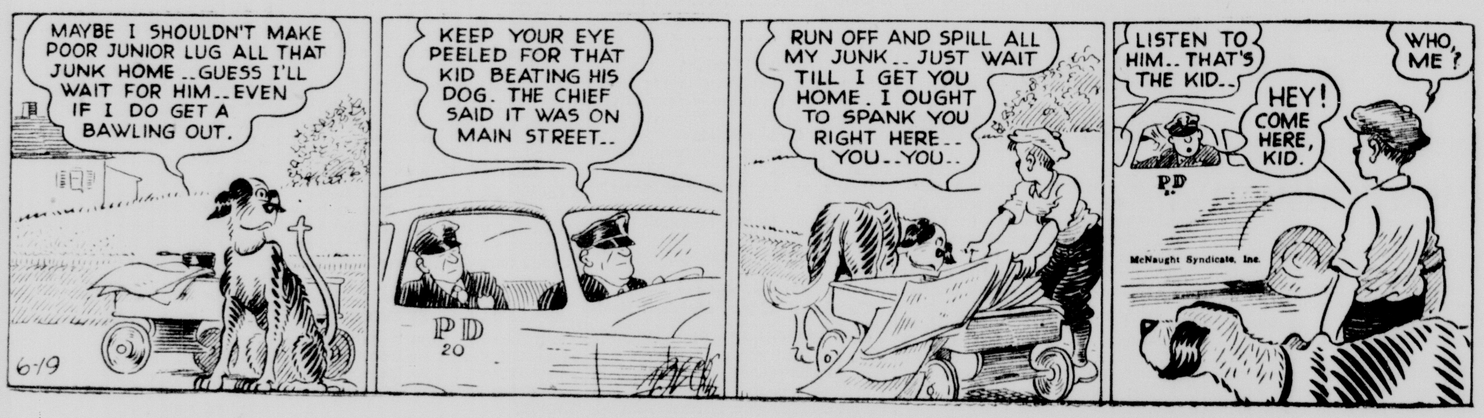

* * *

We have mentioned a lot of things that were to be given away free in this space . . . today we have something different again . . . 500 pepper and tomato plants are Free to all who want them . . . just call 2407-M or stop at 3101 Croton Avenue.

Stock Market Easier Today

Some Issues Give Up As Much As Point—Other Issues Up

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 19.—The stock market eased today. A few issues gave up as much as a point, but losses generally were of modest proportions. Trading was quiet.

While the majority of stocks drifted lower, a handful of special issues bucked the trend. Included were American Telephone, Procter & Gamble, Lone Star Cement, Texas Co., Firestone and National Distillers, the last-named reached a new high for the year.

'Can Beat Habit,' Vow 'Alchoholics Anonymous'

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 19—Back from insane asylums, hospitals, from gutters, almost from the grave itself, came 400 ex-drunkards Thursday to testify that the alcohol habit can be beaten.

Men and women—Wall Street brokers and uptown shoe clerks, Park avenue matrons and stenographers—the 400 gathered for the first annual dinner of local members of "Alcoholics Anonymous".

A tall, spare man, identified only as "Bill" told how he came to found "Alcoholics Anonymous" seven years ago.

"I can remember eight years ago lying upstairs in a hospital for alcoholics while the doctor told my wife I had a progressive malady of body and mind," he said. "He told her that if my drinking continued, I might not go another year without commitment or death.

"I knew it was the end of the road. I was not so much afraid to die as ashamed to die.

"I reached out to whatever God there was and, suddenly, I knew there was one. I knew that by reaching out in the utter depths of my humility I had touched a resource which could release me."

Having won his own struggle in the next 12 months, "Bill" began to think about helping other drinkers.

Dr. William D. Silkworth, staff chief of Towns hospital, told the meeting "Bill has done more for alcoholics in the seven years since he founded AA than has been done in all the years until now."

The former alcoholics told their pitiful stories unashamedly—for their old life is behind them.

And then, when the meeting ended, the 400 rose and repeated the Lord's Prayer—their declaration of faith in the power that had saved them from the drunkard's grave.

Committee Will Vote On Treasury Tax Plan Today

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 19 — With a close vote expected, the House Ways and Means committee meets today to act on a treasury plan to return a portion of proposed corporation war taxes to industries in the post war period.

The Treasury proposal, based upon a plan now in operation in England, is designed to cushion the effect of curtailed production at the end of the world conflict.

If approved, corporations would be given non-interest, non-negotiable federal bonds for a part of their tax payment. The bonds would be redeemable immediately after the end of the war and the money thus paid back would be used by industries to re-convert their plants to peace time operation and provide working capital to finance the beginnings of normal manufacturing.
